FUNCTIONAL SKILLS

You are waiting to join college after your KCSE examination. While reading a newspaper, you see an advertisement for a volunteer worker at a children's home.

Write a letter of inquiry to the manager. Express your interest and inquire if they will pay any allowances and whether they can provide accommodation.

Remember to quote the reference number of the advertisement.

You are secretary of the drama club in your school. The chairperson has asked you send out a notice of the second meeting to plan the staging of shake spear's play, The Merchant of Venice. During the meeting, you will need to appoint the director of the play, set up a date for selecting the cast, discuss the budget for the play, and the dates of rehearsals and the final performance. (20mks)

- a) Write the notice of this meeting which you would send to the members of the drama club.
- b) Write the agenda that you would attach to the notice.

You are the chairperson of the creative Writing Club in your school. The club would like assistance in publishing the winning entry in a recent competition.

Write a letter to a publisher asking them to consider the book for publication.

Remember to write through the head teacher.

In your letter, include the following

- ❖ The title of the book and name of author
- ❖ A brief description of what the book is about
- ❖ Why it is important for the book to be published.

You are the chairperson of your school's Wildlife Conservation Association (WICA). Your group has just come back from a visit to a national park in a neighbouring country.

Write a report to the patron of WICA about the trip. In your report indicate what you accomplished, the problems you experienced and what cautionary measures you would take during trips.

You have lost your luggage on your way back to school. You decide to report the matter to the nearest police station. Below is part of the conversation between you and the police officer at the reporting desk. Fill in the other part. (Read through the conversation first before writing your responses).

You:

FATHER: Oh, you were? Me, I used to be number one. I was absolutely unbeatable.

DAUGHTER: Chemistry has been a particular headache (now looking at the report form which she thought her father would want to see), but this time.....

FATHER: (Stretching his arms, looking preoccupied)
Chemistry for me was particular easy.

I never scored anything less than 90%

DAUGHTER: Dad, I was going to tell you that this time.....

FATHER: (Absent minded) by the way, where is your mum?

DAUGHTER: Mum is in the garden picking vegetables. But dad, you're not listening to my story. I was telling you about Chemistry

FATHER: You mean you have a story about chemistry? Chemistry is not about stories. It is hard science.

DAUGHTER: It's about my improvement.....

FATHER: (laughing) me, it wasn't matter of improvement. I was always at the top of the class

DAUGHTER: Daddy, I give up. You're not listening

FATHER: (looking surprised) Listening? I heard you: you were talking about improvement in chemistry, weren't you?

DAUGHTER: anyway, Dad. Thank you for paying attention. Enjoy your newspaper.

FATHER: Oh yes, I'm reading an interesting story about politics 12.

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow

Once upon a time, there lived a young woman who ran away from home to secretly marry her warrior lover out in the wilderness. The warrior directed the young woman to a place in the forest where he would meet her. He said to her, "When you get to a fork along the path take the right path." Then the warrior went ahead to await her arrival in the forest.

The young woman took off, and when she got to the fork that the warrior had mentioned, she followed the left path, forgetting which path the warrior had instructed her to follow.

As the girl walked on, she came upon an ogre who said to her, “hey, young woman where are going? Do you have anything to say now that I’m going to eat you?” the girl answered in song

Not here my dear

Let us go to the water hole

Where you can eat me

And have a drink

Oh my dear warrior, where was it?

And so it happened that this was very bushy country. The ogre led the young woman on, and when they got to another spot, he said to her, “ I am now going to eat you here.” The girl broke into song, urging him not to eat her.

They went further, and the young woman kept hoping that the warrior would hear her voice. As they walked on, the ogre asked the young girl: “ shall I eat you hear” The girl sang again

Not here my dear

Let us go to the water hole

Where you can eat me

And have a drink

Oh dear warrior, where was it?

But the warrior had still not heard her. When they got to a cave by a river, the ogre collected branches and leaves on which to place the young woman's flesh after he had slaughtered her. When he brought one type of leaf, the girl objected to having her flesh laid on ordinary leaves preferring the sweet-scented leaves of the Matasia plant. The ogre brought another kind of leaf but the girl also rejected it, until eventually the sweet-smelling leaves of Matassia plant were brought. When the ogre asked the girl whether those were the right type of leaves, she said: Yes, these are the ones." The ogre then laid the leaves down on the ground and lit a big fire. All this while, the girl was continuously singing the same song.

Just when the ogre was about to jump on the young woman, the warrior suddenly emerged from the bush. The young woman said to the ogre, "It is now your skinny flesh that will be laid on those leaves." The warrior killed the ogre and placed him on the bed of leaves and took the girl away. And that is the end of the story.

Read the oral narrative below and then answer the questions that follow.

Nyasaye (God) wanted to put a stop to the rampages of death-death which claims the lives of everyone

Young and old

Boys and girls

Men and women

Strangers and kinsmen;

Death which kills

The innocent and the guilty

Chiefs and their subjects

The healthy and the sick

The wise and the foolish.

So one day he sent a servant to earth with a message for all his people. “send me an offering of fresh, untainted fat,” he ordered. “It should be as clean and sparkling as the moon.” Hearing this, the people slaughtered a goat, removed its pure white fat, and placed it in a clay dish overspread with fine fresh leaves.

Now they summoned Ngo’ngruok, also known as Haniafu the Chameleon, and ordered him to take their offering to Nyasaye. They also fashioned a long pole that reached up to heaven where Nyasaye dwells in his glory. This was the path Ng'ongruok would follow when carrying their offering.

But Ng'onguruok accidentally soiled the fat with his clumsy feet, and on his arrival before Nyasaye, presented a dirty and unsightly offering. Nyasaye was furious and rejected it, shouting: "tell the people of earth that because of this insult they must continue to die, just as their ancestors have done!"

Ng'ongruok descended from heaven delivered Nyasaye's message, and returned the offering to the people. Ever since then, alas death has continued to ravage human beings. For his clumsiness, Ngo'ngruok was cursed by the people. Hence, he must always walk on all fours, and his steps must be hesitant and slow. That is why you will always see him carrying one leg raised from the ground as he tries to decide exactly where to tread.

The owner of yam peels his yam in the house:

A neighbour knocks at the door.

The owner of yam throws his yam in the bedroom:

The neighbour says, "I just heard

A sound, Kere Kere, that's why I came.

"The owner of yam replies,

"That was nothing, I was sharpening two knives.

"The neighbour says again, "I still heard

Something like bi sound behind your door.

The owner of yam says,

"I merely tried my door with a mallet.

"The neighbour says again,

"What about this huge fire burning on your hearth?"

The fellow replies,

"I am merely warming water for my bath.

"The neighbour persists,

"Why is your skin all white, when this is not the Harmattan season?

The fellow is ready with his reply,

"I was rolling on the floor when I heard of the Agadapidi."

The owner of yam starts to shout,

"There cannot be peace.

Unless the owner of food is allowed to eat his food!"

One hand cannot manage work

A threshing stick cannot thresh millet with one hand.

Some hands breed hatred at the eating time

Nobody hates being assisted.

Let millet be threshed

Let it be threshed, let it be threshed

Cut a threshing stick for me

A lazy wife

Is taken back to her parents

When the rain fails

It blames the wind

And a lazy woman

Blames the threshing stick

Cut a threshing stick for me -ii

My co-wife cut me a threshing stick

You woman, owner of this occasion

Remember that work is the stomach

Take care not to starve us

The threshing sticks are sounding

Let the millet leave the threshing ground.

Read the following oral poem and answer the questions that follow:

The poor man knows not how to eat with a rich man.

When they eat fish, he eats the head.

Invite a poor man and he rushes in Licking his lips and upsetting the plates.

The poor man has no manners; he comes along with the blood of lice under his nails.

The face of a poor man is lined
From hunger that thirst in his belly.

Poverty is no state for any mortal man.
It makes him a best to be fed on grass.

Poverty is unjust. If it befalls a man,
Though he is nobly born, he has no power with God.

Read the passage below and then answer the questions that follow.

In the eighteenth century, the field of science was virtually closed to women. In France, the countess wrote a highly regarded book about Newtonian physics, but its very excellence spoke against her. The manuscript was so good that it was widely assumed that it had been written by the countess's tutor rather than by the countess herself. Sadly enough, the tutor Samuel Konig, did nothing to discourage the rumours about the books<sup>7</sup> authorship. Instead, he took full credit for the countess's efforts. In England, the leading nation in science, the situation was worse. Women were strictly prohibited from admission to scientific societies. Indeed the English denied women access to all forms of scientific study.

Italy, however, was something of an exception to the general European rule, and a number of provincial scientific societies did admit women. It is perhaps not surprising, then, that the one woman who crashed the barriers erected against her gender was an Italian, Laura Bassi (1711 -1778). Bassi actually became a respected scientific figure at a time when women were generally thought to be too intellectually limited for the rigors of scientific study. By all accounts, she thoroughly disproved the sexist notion that women and the sciences were opposed to one another.

Bassi was one of the lucky women of her era. Her father was an enlightened lawyer in Bologna, Italy, who believed that women should be educated. Thus, young Laura was schooled by the family physician, Gaetano Tacconi. By the age of twenty she was familiar with scientific concepts of the times, particularly Newtonian physics. Because her father encouraged her to display her erudition at social gatherings, Bassi's reputation as a learned woman grew. Tested by a group of professors and scholars anxious to prove that a woman could not possibly be so clever, Bassi astonished the sceptics with her intelligence, learning, and eloquence. Local scholars were so impressed that in 1731 they invited her to join the Bologna Institute of Sciences and to study for a degree at the University of Bologna. On May 12, 1732, Bassi became only the second woman ever to gain an academic degree. A few months later, she became the world's first female professor.

But despite her breakthrough, those in charge of the University of Bologna had very rigid ideas about what Bassi could or could not do as a professor. For example, she had no say over her schedule. To the University's leaders, she was an intriguing oddity. They might trot her out for display to curious visiting scholars, but they would not let her lecture on a regular basis. Nor, for that matter, could she pursue her own studies or research. Still, Bassi was not an easy woman to control, and to a degree, she managed to go her own way.

In 1749, to escape university restrictions, Bassi began offering private lessons in experimental physics. She also began championing Newtonian physics at a time when it was relatively unknown in Italy, and she promoted Newton's findings about gravity even in the face of widespread intellectual resistance. In addition, Bassi corresponded with the leading physicists of the day. Thus, she kept her country abreast of new scientific theories.

In 1776, when Bassi was sixty five, the university acknowledged her contributions to scientific thought by bestowing upon her an unheard of honour of a woman: She was appointed chair of experimental physics, and her husband, the father of her eight children, was appointed her assistant.

Contrary to expectation, Bassi's achievement did not pave the way for other women. This is because many of her male colleagues had been disturbed by her extraordinary progress and were reluctant to let any other female follow her footsteps. After Bassi's death in 1778, it took more than a century, and the arrival of Marie Curie, for another woman to find herself at home in the male-dominated world of science.

Read the passage below and then answer the questions that follow.

You may think that expecting food to change your life is too much to ask. But have you considered that eating the right food at the right time will increase your energy, help you manage weight and ward off major illnesses?

Researchers have found that eating a meal with plenty of protein leaves you feeling more satisfied for longer when compared to a meal loaded with low-quality carbohydrates. Your body takes longer to digest protein, leading to a gradual increase in blood sugar. The high protein breakfast will therefore carry you through the morning and, more importantly, through your tea break. Many high-carbohydrate meals are absorbed quickly and send blood sugar on a roller coaster ride, taking your appetite with it and depleting your energy.

Many foods contain antioxidants, but fruits and vegetables may be the richest source. Behaving like chemical warriors, antioxidants neutralize molecules known as free radicals before they damage arteries and body cells. This protects you from heart diseases, high blood pressure, cancer and diabetes; you can now see why antioxidant foods should be consumed in generous portions.

Actually, forget pills - antioxidants work best when consumed in foods. In fact, nutritionists recommend that we eat five portions of fruit and vegetables a day. It's less daunting than it sounds: a portion equals a piece of fruit, three tablespoons of cooked vegetables or a glass of fresh juice.

And do you desire to relieve yourself of some baggage? Calcium is the latest weight - loss star to appear on the scene. Scientist stumbled on its magic by accident. From a study that measured the blood pressure of obese people, it was discovered that those who took one large tub of yoghurt a day in their diet lost an average of eleven pounds of body fat in one year, even though they did not eat less.

A follow - up study found that people on a high -calcium diet lost more weight and fat than did people on a low - calcium diet -and again, both consumed the same number of calories. Researchers believe calcium encourages fat cells to stop "getting fatter". Instead, the cells burn extra fat without you having to go anywhere near a gymnasium.

It probably sounds strange to say that you can eat more in order to lose weight. Obviously, the question you should ask immediately is, "Eat more of what?" We are talking about foods rich in fibre. They have what is referred to as low energy density; that translates to few calories relative to weight. This means that you can down a mountain without fear of calorie overload.

Fibre also aids weight loss because it's filling. Most high fibre foods take a lot of chewing, triggering your body's fullness sensors. Moreover, you absorb the food more slowly so you feel full longer.

Will the wonders of food ever cease? Not if researchers in nutrition keep up their pace. Let them keep the good news flowing - such as the fact that we don't have to starve ourselves to lose weight and keep disease at bay.

- (a). From the information given in the first paragraph, how can you improve your life? (1mk)
- (b). In not more than 35 words, summarize the effects of eating carbohydrates. (4 mks)
- (c). Explain how free radicals contribute to the occurrence of high blood pressure and cancer. (2 mks)

- (e). "In fact nutritionists recommend that we eat five portions of fruit and vegetable a day" Rewrite the sentence above as a question without changing the meaning, beginning: Don't ..... (1mk)
- (f). What is the attitude of the author towards calcium as a weight- cutting measure?
- (g). According to the passage, how can you use up excess fat?
- (h). Identify an instance of irony in the passage.
- (i). Explain the meaning of the following expressions as used in the passage.
  - daunting
  - baggage
  - down a mountain

Read the passage below and then answer the questions that follow.

During the last couple of decades, the developing world has made enormous economic progress. This can be seen most clearly in the rising trend of incomes and consumption: between 1965 and 1985 consumption per capital in the developing "world went up by almost 70 percent. Broader measures of well-being confirm this picture-life expectancy, child mortality, and educational attainment have all improved markedly.

Against that background of achievement, it is all the more staggering and all the more shameful - that more than one billion people in the developing world are living in poverty. Progress in raising average incomes, however welcome, must not distract attention from this massive and continuing burden of poverty.

The same is true of the broader measures of well-being. Life expectancy in sub-Saharan Africa is just 50 years: In Japan it is almost 80. More than 110 million children in the developing world lack access even to primary education while in the developed world, anything less than universal enrolment would rightly be regarded as unacceptable. The starkness of these contrasts attests to the continuing toll of human deprivation.

It should be noted that even in the developing world, poverty levels differ from region to region, country to country and even location to location within the same country. For example, nearly half of the world's poor live in South Asia, a region that accounts for less than one third of the world's population. Sub-Saharan Africa accounts for a smaller, but still highly disproportionate share of global poverty. Within regions and countries, the poor are often concentrated in certain places: in rural areas with high population densities. Often, the problems of poverty, population and the environment are interrelated; earlier patterns of development and pressure of rapidly expanding populations mean that many of the poor live in areas of acute environmental degradation.

It is also true that the weight of poverty falls most heavily on certain groups. Women in general are disadvantaged. This is because in poor households, they often shoulder more of the workload than men, are less educated, and have less access to remunerative activities. Children, too, suffer disproportionately, and the future quality of their lives is compromised by inadequate nutrition, health care, and education. This is especially true for girls, for their primary school enrolment rates are less than 50 percent in many African countries.

Obviously, reducing poverty is the fundamental objective of economic development in any country. It is estimated that in 1985, more than one billion people in the developing world lived in absolute poverty. Clearly then, economic development has a long way to go. Knowledge about the poor is essential if governments are to adopt sound development strategies and more effective policies for attacking poverty. How many poor are there? Where do they live? What are their precise economic circumstances? Answering these questions is the first step toward understanding the impact of economic policies on the poor.

We had grown up together in my village. Her family had been even poorer than mine, which as saying something in those days. Her father was a brute and her mother was weak. Since she was the eldest child, a lot of the responsibility for bringing up her siblings had fallen on her shoulders. From time to time I helped her out, but I could not do much. I helped her fetch water from the stream and occasionally chopped firewood, but that was all. Her father was a morbidly suspicious man. Visitors, apart from his drinking companions, were not encouraged, and I had no desire to add to her misery. Night after night I would lie awake listening to her screams, cursing myself for my own physical inadequacy and my father for his unwillingness to become involved. When I was twelve, I started at the secondary school in the town a few miles away. During term-time I stayed with my uncle, returning to the village only during the vacations. Veronica and I remarked friendly, and she was always pleased to see me. When we could, we snatched time together by the stream and she asked me endless questions about my school and the town and what was going to be when I grew up. But for all misery of her own life she never seemed to envy me.

And then came the day when i was to leave .for good. I had won a scholarship to the university and I knew in my heart I would be away a long time. I was eighteen then and I thought I knew my own worth. The day before I left we met by the stream. As he walked towards me I realized for the first time that she was no longer a girl, but a young woman. Her clothes were still shabby but she had an attractiveness that drew me more closely to her.

"You must be happy to be going". She said. I shrugged and pretended to be unconcerned, but of course it was the break I had hardly dared hope for. "What about you? I asked. "Me!"

"Yes, why don't you get out of this place? It has nothing to offer you." "I can't just leave my family." "Why not? What have they ever done for you?" "Don't talk like that. They are my family that is enough".

"But think of all the things you can do in that city". I said.

"No, the city is for you, not for me. What will I do once I get there? I have no education, only standard Eight."

Although I know there was a lot of truth in what she said, I resisted her line of argument: I suppose I was both appalled and frightened by her fatalism. "You can go to evening classes and become a secretary, I said.

She shook her head, "I leave that to others; my own place is here".

I snapped a twig and threw into the water. It bobbed on the current and then vanished from sight.

"When I have qualified I will send you money to take a correspondence course, "I said. She laughed

"Don't talk foolishness," she said and stood up.

"I have to go and cook; my father will soon be home."

"Here is my address. If you need anything don't hesitate to write to me." I handed her a piece of paper. She took it and tucked it in her bosom. We said goodbye and she hurried away. I thought I saw tears in her eyes as she turned to go.

Well, I went to the city and made good. In due course I was ready to set up a practice of my own. In all the time I did not return to the village, but I never lost touch with Veronica. In time, I persuaded her to return to school and I felt privileged to sponsor her.

Read the passage below and then answer the questions that follow.

Knowing that Mrs. Kalani was afflicted with a heart disease, great care was taken to break to her the news of her husband's death as gently as possible. It was Josephine, her sister, who told her in broken sentences and veiled hints. Also present was Nemi, a family friend. It was he who had been in the newspaper office when information about the railway disaster was received, with Jane's Kalani's name leading the list of the "killed". After verifying the information, he had hastened to the Kalani residence in order to forestall only less careful, less tender friend from bearing the sad message.

She did not receive the news as many women would. The significance of what had happened sank in immediately and she wept with sudden wild abandonment. When the storm of grief had spent itself she went to her room and would have no one follow her. Pressed down by a physical exhaustion that haunted her body and soul, she sank into a bed-side chair.

She could see in the open square before her house the tops of trees that were all pregnant with newly life. The delicious breath of rain was in the air. In the street below a peddler was advertising his wares. The notes of a distant song which someone was singing reached her faintly, and countless sparrows were twittering in the eaves.

She sat quite motionless except when a sob came up into her throat and shook her, as a child who has cried itself to sleep continues to sob in its dreams.

She was young, with fair calm face, whose lines bespoke repression and even a certain strength. But now there was a dull stare in her eyes. There was something coming to her and she was waiting for it, fearfully. What was it? She did not know, it was too subtle and elusive to name. But she felt it, creeping out of the sky, reaching toward her through the sounds and the scents that filled the air.

Now her bosom rose and fell tumultuously. She was beginning to recognize this thing that was approaching to possess her. She was striving to beat it back but she was powerless. When she abandoned herself, a little whispered word escaped from her parted lips: "Free, free, free!" The vacant stare was gone and in its place came a bright keen look. Her pulses beat just and her body relaxed. She did not stop to ask if it were not a monstrous joy that held her. She knew that she would weep again when she saw the kind, tender hands folded in death. But she saw beyond that bitter moment a long procession of years to come that would belong to her absolutely. And she opened and spread her arms out to them in welcome. There would be no one to live for during those coming years; she would live herself. She breathed a quick prayer that life might be long.

Josephine was imploring for admission. "Louis-open the door! I beg you, for heaven's sake open the door."

She arose at length and opened the door. There was a feverish triumph in her eyes, and she carried herself unwittingly like a goddess of victory. She and her sister went into the sitting room where Nemi still was.

Someone was opening the front door. It was Mr. Kalani who entered, a little travel-stained but otherwise composed. He had been far from the scene of the accident, and was even oblivious of any such happening. He stood amazed at Josephine's piercing cry; at Nemi's quick motion to screen him from the view of his wife.

But Nemi was too late. When the doctor came, he said she had died of heart disease of joy that kills.

Read the passage below and then answer the questions that follow.

The acceptance of the Christian church meant the 'outright rejection of all the Africans- customs. It meant rejection of those values and rituals that held us together: It meant adopting what in effect was a debased European middle - class mode of living and behaviour. The European missionary had attacked the primitive rites of our people, had condemned our beautiful African dances, the images of our gods, recoiling from their suggestion of satanic sensuality. The early African convert did the same, often with even greater zeal, for he had to prove how Christians he was through this rejection of his past and roots. The conflict between the Kenya people and the missionary churches, the subsequent setting up of African independent churches, and the religious aspects of the Mau Mau liberation movement, were direct results of the culture conflict initiated by the missionary holy zeal. The break away churches all over Kenya tried to create a form of worship and evolve an education more in thee and harmony with people's hopes, incorporating as some did the best in our traditional approach to God and the universe. They wanted in the words of Professor Alan Ogot and the Reverend F.B Welbourn, to build a place to feel at home.

The church in Kenya today is a creation of the Europeans missionaries. And we have said the missionaries were part of the momentous upheaval in our history - the coming of the colonialism. Or rather, missionaries were part of the momentous upheaval in our history - the coming of colonialism, or rather, missionaries, settlers and administrators were agents of European imperialism. It has been said with truth that the trader and the settler followed the skirts and shirt - cuffs of the missionary. In some places in Africa, political power was established at the request and instigation of the missionaries of the imperialist's country. Livingstone and Cecil Rhodes, Dr. Arthur and Lord Delamere, were these not part of that movement that came into such a fatal collision with our way of life and identity?

CITY LIFE

When I am in a great city, I know that I despair.
I know there is no hope for us, death waits, it is useless to care,
For oh the poor people, that are flesh of my flesh,
I, that am flesh of their flesh,
When I see the iron hooked into their faces their poor, their fearful faces
I scream in my soul, for I know I cannot Take the iron hooks out of their faces, that make them so drawn,
Nor cut the invisible wires of steel that pull them.
Back and forth, to work,
Back and forth to work,
Like fearful and corpse-like fishes hooked and being played.
By some malignant fisherman on an unseen shore where he does not choose to land them yet, hooked fishes of the factory world.

Betrothed by Obyero Qdhiambo

The bride, they said

Had gone through school

Primary secondary university upwards

Three thousand shillings is not enough

For having fed her schooled her employed her

Three thousand shillings is not enough

For having borne her

Cared for her doctored her

And "she is pure"

Three thousand shillings is not enough

Look at her silky black hair

Darker and finer than that

Flywhisk there

Look at her forehead, a nice wide trace between hair line and eyes:

"She is immensely intelligent".

Look at her eyes .Yes, look again

Two diviners' cowries spread out

Symbolically on the divination mat

Deep profound intelligent

Look at those lips "ndugu"- - - -

Three thousand shillings is not enough

even to shake her by the hand.

"Fathers, this is what we walked with!

Three thousand shillings

As a token of our

Love

For your daughter and you

Our intended kin

It was just a token

the size of a token does not reflect

The size of the heart that bringeth it

My heart is full to the brim with

Love

For her and you my intended kin"

But young man, you say, you love

And you possible expect love

But, young man, don't you

Don't you really feel

Three thousand shillings is not enough

even to get love?

Three thousand is not enough!

The Brewing Night

It was that memorable night when I heard it.

Yes, I heard it all.

That night sleep deserted me,

Mocked at me and tantalized me;

So I lay awake, sharp in all my senses.

It was long past midnight:

Time dragged on, the clock wouldn't chime;

The dog wouldn't bark, nor the babies cry;

It was a moonless and windless night;

The whole universe seemed to stagnate

In dark, dreary, dead slumber.

What was amiss? I knew not.

The dead quietness and solitude

Seemed to be eternal, - but

Waves of babbling and muttering

Began to trickle through the streets;

A distant roaring if heavy trucks filled the air,

Hurried footsteps echoed through the street.

What was a miss? I knew not.

I pulled my curtain

And there I saw it all

Heavy boots thick uniforms and solid helmets

Dimly discernible under the pale street lamp

The atmosphere stood stiff and solid with

Browny - faced and clenched-teeth determination.

The night had pused with passions high and wild;

The streets were stained with new portraits framed;

The wheel changed hands and new plans were filled.

The morning saw the country strangely dressed

And everyone attended the rally.

To hear the eloquence from a strange face,

And everyone quietly nodded and said, 'yes'

"Sympathy"

I know what the caged bird feels, alas!
When the sun is bright on the upland slopes;
When the wind stirs soft through the springing grass
And the river flows like a stream of glass;
When the first bird sings and the first bud opens,
And the faint perfume from its petals steals-
I know what the caged bird feels!

I know why the caged bird beats his wing
Till its blood is red on the cruel bars;
For he must fly back to his perch and cling
When he rather would be on the branch a swing;
And a pain still throbs in the old, old scars
And they pulse again with a keener sting-
I know why he beats his wing!

I know why the caged bird sings, ah me,
When his wing is bruised and his blossom sore;
When he beats his bars and would be free;
It is not a song of joy or glee,
But a prayer that he sends from his heart's deep core,

But a plea, that upward to heaven he flings –

I know why the caged bird sings!

Touch by High Lewin.

When I get out

I'm going to ask someone

To touch me

Very gently please

And slowly

Touch me

I want

To learn again

How life feels.

I've not been touched

For seven years

for seven years

I've been untouched

out of touch

and I've learnt to know now

the meaning of untouchable.

Untouched - not quite

I can count the things that have touched me.

One: fists

At the beginning

fierce mad fists

beating beating till I remember screaming don't touch me

please don't touch me.

Two: paws

The first four years of paws everyday patting paws, searching

- arms up, shoes off legs apart prodding paws, systematic heavy, indifferent probing away
all privacy.

I don't want fists and paws

I want to want to be touched again

and to touch
I want feel alive
again
I want to say

when I get out

Here I am

please touch me.

My little sister likes to try my shoes,

to strut in them

admire her spindle- thin twelve- year old legs

In this season's styles.

She says they fit perfectly,

But wobbles

On their high heels, they're hard to balance

I like to watch my little sister playing hopscotch, admire the neat hops-and -skips of her,
their quick peck,
never missing their mark, not over-stepping the line
She is competent at peever.

I try to warn my little sister about unsuitable shoes,
Point out my own distorted feet, the callouses,
Odd patches of hard skin.
I should not like to see her
In my shoes
I wish she would stay
Sure footed
Sensible shod

Crazy Peter Prattles

So what is the mountain deal

About the minister's ailing son

That he makes boiling news?

How come it was not whispered

When Tina's hospital bed crawled with maggots

And her eyes oozed pus

Because the doctors lacked gloves?

What about Kasajja's only child

Who died because the man with the key

To the oxygen room was on leave?

I have seen queues of emaciated mothers clinging to babies with translucent skins

faint in line and the lioness of a nurse Commanding tersely
"Get up or leave the line".

Didn't I hear it rumoured that the man with the white mane and black robes whose mouth stores the justice of the land ushered a rape case out of court because the seven year old failed to testify?

Anyway, I only remember these things they are indeed tipsy explosions.

White child meets Black man

She caught me outside a London
Suburban shop, I like a giraffe and she a mouse. I tried to go but felt she stood
Lovely as light on my back.

I turned with hello
And waited. Her eyes got wider but not her lips

Hello I Smiled again and watched.

She stepped around me
Slowly, in a kind of a dance, her wide eyes searching inch by inch up and down:
no fur no scales no feathers-curiously no shell. Just a live silhouette, wild and strange and compulsive till mother came horrified.

"Mummy is his tummy black?"
Mother grasped her and swung towards the crowd. She tangled Mother's legs looking back at me
As I watched them birds were singing.

DEATH, BE NOT PROUD

By John Doune

Death; be not proud, though some have called thee

Mighty and dreadful, thou are not so; for those whom thou think'st thou dost overthrow.

Die not, poor Death, nor yet canst thou kill me.

From rest and sleep, which but thy pictures be, much pleasure - then from three much more must flow;

And soonest our best men with thee do go,

Rest of their bones and soul's delivery.

Thou art slave to fate, chance, kings and desperate men,

And dost with poison, war, and sickness dwell; And poppy or charm's can make us sleep well,

And better than they stroke. Why swell'st thou then?

One short sleep past, we wake eternally,

And death shall be no more, Death, thou shalt die.

The road not taken

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,

And sorry I could not travel both .

And be on traveler, long I stood

And looked down one as far as I could

To where it bent in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear,
Though as for that the passing there
Had worn them really about the same.

And both that morning equally lay,
In leaves no step had trodden black,
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way
I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh,
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood and I
I took the one less traveled by
And that has made all the difference.

(20 mks)

The death penalty has been abolished in many countries. But there are still many other countries in the world which punish offenders against certain laws by putting them to death. The debate about the suitability of death as punishment has been raging all over the world for quite a long time. It is still going on today. Unfortunately, many arguments either for or against death as a punishment are emotional, based on mere feelings, with little regard to facts or simple logic. Let us look at a few of the pros and cons of this matter of life and death and see how rational debate can be developed around them.

The death penalty is most frequently meted out to murderers, people who have deliberately killed others. Supporters of the penalty this offence argue that a murderer commits the ultimate violation of human life and society. His or her offence is so serious that the only commensurate punishment is death. "Let him or her die, just as the victim die", the approach to punishment is called retribution. In other words, pay the offenders back in his or her own coins.

This position, however, is rather untenable. As the famous Indian statesman Mahatma Gandhi put it, an eye-for-an eye policy would just leave the world with a lot of blind people. Hanging, electrocuting or shooting a murderer does not do the murdered victim any good. It only means the destruction and waste of yet another life. Instead of concentrating on retribution as a purpose of punishment, it may be better to emphasize reform. Offenders are subjected to sanctions, like life imprisonment, but they are also given a chance to repent and mend there is not much possibility of giving him or her a chance to reform, is there?

Closely related to retribution, 'justice' or satisfaction is also advocated by supporters of death penalty. They say that society as a whole, and the relatives of the victim of a crime like murder in particular, need to feel that their grievance is recognized and assuaged through the severe punishment given to offender. Thus justice is done and seen to be done, as they say in law, indeed, no society should compromise on the administration of justice. Any aggrieved person who approaches the seat of justice to demand satisfaction should be adequately served by the state. Indeed, this may be one reason why criminal offences, like murder, are prosecuted in the name of the state rather than in the name of the victims or their relatives. A criminal act is an offence against the whole society and should be adequately punished.

The problem with the death sentence, however, is that it is not always a satisfaction of justice. The taking of a person's life is violation of the most fundamental human violation of the most fundamental human right. It cannot be justified on the pretext that the presumed murderer also violated the victim's right. Moreover, two wrongs do not make a right. Moreover, because of its finality, the execution of a convict cannot be revised or rescinded once it has been carried out. Yet, since we are all human and we can make mistakes, it is quite possible for a court to convict an innocent person by mistake. Cases have been known where a supposed murder victim reappeared, alive and well, long after his or her presumed 'murderer' had been convicted and executed!

Another common argument advanced in favour of the death penalty is that it acts as a deterrent. Supporters of this position believe that the certainty that those who commit crimes like murder, rape, treason or drug trafficking will be condemned to death deters or scares would-be offenders. In other words, the death penalty is a kind of preventive measure. People will avoid these offences, so the argument goes, because of fear of death. This argument appears to carry some weight, since the self-preservation instinct is strong in all of us. However its only acceptable proof would have to be based on statistical evidence.

Unfortunately, there is no known body of statistics which proves conclusively that murder and other capital offences are more prevalent in societies without the death penalty than in those which have it. But even if such statistics were available, we would be left with the practical difficulty of ascertaining the reasons why certain crimes were not committed. Thus it may be more productive to concentrated on educating members of society on non-violate life. Styles and effective conflict resolution than on tarrying them and brutalizing them through barbaric measures like the death penalty.

Indeed, the cruelty and trauma of execution affect not only those put to death but everyone involved in the process, like the executioners themselves, the clergymen who have to counsel and pray for the convicts in their last moments and the doctors who certify that the hanged, electrocuted or poison-injected person is really dead. Hangmen particularly often give testimonies of how they are haunted and disturbed by the executions they have to carry out. It is fair to subject these innocent people to such mental and psychological torture in the name of a dubious 'just' punishment?

1. What is the opinion of the writer about many arguments for or against the death penalty?
2. Define retribution
3. Identify another phrase in the passage that means the same as 'an eye for an eye'
4. Paraphrase the author's objections to retribution.
5. In three sentences, explain in what ways the death penalty is a violation of justice.

7. What methods of execution does the passage mention?
8. 'Two wrongs do not make a right? Add a question tag to this sentence.
9. In about 45 words, summarize the author's argument against the death penalty.
10. Explain the meaning of each of the following words according to the way it is used in the passage.
  - (a) Commensurate
  - (b) Untenable

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow: (20 marks)

It is a great fortune to belong to that generation that grew up feeding on tales of Kaka Sungura na wenzake instead of the cartoon network fare. I am sure, in many ways we are better people for it.

But the thing that used to get to me about Kaka Sungura was this; although he was brighter, spiffier, humorous and certainly more interesting than all the other animals he pitted himself against in all his food' hardy acts, he always lost the race, the woman, the maize con or even his life!

The great African moral of the story was that it didn't pay to be too smart for your boots, so while the tortoise won the race through perseverance and some measure of deceit, the cocksure rabbit slept against a tree and got to finish the line only to realize the joke was on him.

Yet we loved those stories even though we had heard them a million times before, even though we knew the outcome. For you Sere, in great tradition of oral folklore, the story teller always varied his rendition for each different audience. He or she also knew when to throw a song, dance or mime.

Their expressions animated, the story although with predictable endings (the rabbit always lost, duh!) never failed to come alive with new twists and turns each time. But the really interesting part came when we retold the Kaka Sungura stories to our peers. We added in characters - like superman and wonder-woman- you see that was way before the time of Batman.

Sometimes we even gave kaka Sungura Superpowers himself. And when we told the story out of the ear shot of the grownups, we occasionally allowed Kaka Sungura to win! So what if he was trickster and too cocksure, we liked the guy! If only we could conjure up that childlike imagination to change our real life situations as easily as that.

Too often we grow up believing that our dreams and desires will unfold for us. When that fails to happen, we may get bitter at worst or resign ourselves to the present drama as it unfolds at best. We may even rationalize that we are too old, too female, too poor and whatever else to significantly steer our lives in another direction.

But then again, why can't we? Why can't we add some drama every now and then to a story that is getting boring? Heck, while we are at it, why can't we just change the ending of the story? Today, during a conversation with a friend, we began to reminisce about our lives and the paths we had chosen at critical moments in life which had led us to our present situations. These included choice of a partner, friends and whether or not to have children. This also in part included choice of a partner, friends and whether or not to have children. This also in part includes choice of type of education and whether to pursue it further. This even included choice of career and jobs.

The tragedy is that some of us then choose to stay in unpleasant situations because the naysayers insist that one must never change the ending. No matter what happens in between, the rabbit is always supposed to lose

Yet, as Oprah would say, I now know for sure that we can retell our life story. As a matter of fact, if we are very unhappy with our current state of affairs; we can rewrite the script. The courageous in our midst do it every day. It is the woman who at mid life opts for a career change that makes her wake up with a zing. It is the man who unhappy with his health decides to prepare for a marathon, climbs a mountain or changes his lifestyle. It is the woman who walks out of an abusive and demanding relationship. It is the man who changes his outlook and takes a kinder perspective toward life. Yet in all these scenarios, the critical question hinges on whether or not one is committed to remaining where they are and their old story or to moving to where they want to be and rewriting that story. It is certainly much easier than it sounds, and I am sure each of the courageous souls above will tell us that it took some gut, blood and tears. But the good new is that it is possible. Now that is what I call a happy ending to a hare story!

Dr Stockmann: No, no; but I am impatient, as you can understand. I shall not know a moment's peace of mind until I see it in print.

Hovstad: Hm! - !t will take a good while yet. Won't it, Aslaksen?

Aslaksen: Yes, I am afraid it will.

Dr. Stockmann: All right, my dear fellows; I will come back. I do not mind coming back twice if necessary. A matter of such great importance - the welfare of the town at stake - it is no time to shirk trouble. (About to go, but stops and comes back). Look here there is one more thing I want to talk to you about.

Hovstad: Excuse me, but could it not wait till some other time?

Dr. Stockmann. I can tell you in half a dozen words. It is only this. When people read my article tomorrow and realize that I have been quietly working the whole winter for the welfare of the town...

Hovstad: Yes, but Doctor...

Dr. Stockmann: I know what you are going to say. You don't see how on earth it was any more than my duty -my simple duty as a citizen. Of course it wasn't; I know that as well as you do. But my fellow citizens, you know...! Good Lord, think of all the good souls who think so highly of me...!

Aslaksen: Yes our townsfolk have had a very high opinion of you up to now Doctor.

Dr. Stockmann: Yes, and that is just why I am afraid they... Well, this is the point; when this reaches them, especially the poorer classes, they take it like-a summons to take the town's affairs into their own hands for the future...

Hovstad (getting up): Hm! Doctor, I won't conceal from you the fact...

Dr. Stockmann: Ah I - I knew there was something in the wind! But I won't hear a word of it. If anything of that sort is being organized...

Hovstad: Of what sort?

Dr. Stockmann: Well, whether it is a demonstration in my honour, or a banquet, or a subscription list for some presentation to me - whatever it is, you must promise me solemnly and faithfully to put a stop to it. You too, Mr. Aslaksen: do you understand?

Hovstad: Excuse me, Doctor, but sooner or later you've got to hear the plain truth.

- (a) Where is this dialogue taking place? (2 marks)
- (b) What is it that Dr. Stockmann wants to see in print? And what are its contents? (3 marks)
- (c) How are Hovstad's and Aslaksen's jobs related to Dr. stockmann's concerns? (2 marks)
- (d) What new information do Hovstad and Aslaksen have that has changed their attitude towards Dr. Stockmann? (4 marks)

21. Read the following excerpt and answer the questions that follow. (20 marks)

HOVSTAD: You said yesterday that the contamination of the water was due to impurities in the soil.

DR. STOCKMANN: Yes, there is no doubt it is due to that poisonous morass up at Molledal.

HOVSTAD: You will forgive me, Doctor, I fancy it is due to quite another morass altogether.

DR. STOCKMANN: What morass?

HOVSTAD: The morass that the whole society is built on and is rotting in.

DR. STOCKMANN: What the devil are you driving at, Hovstad?

HOVSTAD: The whole of the town's interest have, little by little, got into the hands of a pack of officials.

DR. STOCKMANN: Oh, come!-they are not all officials.

HOVSTAD: No, but those that are not officials are at the rate the officials' friends and hangers-on; it is the wealthy folk, the old families in the town, that are in control.

DR. STOCKMANN: Yes, but after all they are men of ability and insight.

HOVSTAD: Did they show any ability or insight when they laid the conduit-pipes where they are now?

DR. STOCKMANN: No, of course that was a great piece of stupidity on their part. But that is going to be set right now.

HOVSTAD: Do you think that will be easy?

DR. STOCKMANN: Easy or not, it has got to be done, anyway.

HOVSTAD: Yes, provided the press takes up the question.

DR. STOCKMANN: I don't think that will be necessary, my dear fellow, I am certain my brother....

HOVSTAD: Excuse me, Doctor; I feel bound to tell you I am inclined to take up the matter.

DR. STOCKMANN: In the paper?

HOVSTAD: Yes. When I took over the People's Messenger my idea was to break up this ring of obstinate old fossils who had got hold of all the influence.

DR. STOCKMANN: But you know you told me yourself what the outcome had been; you nearly ruined the paper in the process.

HOVSTAD: Yes, at the time we were obliged to climb down a peg or two, it is quite true - because there was a danger of the whole project of the Baths coming to nothing if they failed us. But now the scheme has been carried through, and we can do without these expensive gentlemen.

DR. STOCKMANN: Do without them, yes; but, we owe them a great debt of gratitude.

HOVSTAD: I'm not forgetting that. But, a journalist of my democratic tendencies cannot let such an opportunity as this slip. The myth of official infallibility must be pricked. This superstition, away with it!

HOVSTAD: I should be very reluctant to accuse the Mayor, because he is your brother. But I am sure you will agree with me that the truth should come first...

DR. STOCKMANN: That goes without saying. (With sudden emphasis) Yes, but-but...

HOVSTAD: Do not misunderstand me. I am neither more self-interested nor more ambitious than the next man.

DR. STOCKMANN: My dear fellow - who suggests anything of the kind?

HOVSTAD: I am of humble origin, as you know; and that has given me opportunities of knowing that the most crying need of the working class is that they should be allowed some part in the direction of public affairs, Doctor. That is what will develop their abilities, intelligence and self respect...

DR. STOCKMANN: I quite appreciate that.

HOVSTAD: Yes - and in my opinion, a journalist incurs a heavy responsibility if he neglects a favourable opportunity of emancipating the masses - the humble and the oppressed. I know well enough that in exalted circles I shall be called an agitator, and all that sort of a thing; but they may call me what they like. If only my conscience doesn't reproach me, then...

DR. STOCKMANN: Quite "right! Quite right, Mr. Hovstad. But all the same - devil take it! (A knock is heard at the door.) Come in!

- a) "The Morass that the whole society is built on and is rotting in." What Morass is Hovstad referring to? (1mk)
- b) From the extract, what are Hovstad's accusations of the officials? (4mks)
- c) From your knowledge of the play, what is the main cause of the contamination of the water? (4mks)

  - (vii) How does Hovstad's last speech contradict his behaviour later in the text? (3mks)

22. Read the excerpt below and answer the questions that follow.

Joshua fumed with fury. He would not let her finish. And Waiyaki was still in a dream. But still he was hurt and a burning anger was urging him to go out.

Outside he heard a faint noise. At first it had seemed distant but now he could hear some words. Teacher ..... Traitor ..... A heavy dejection came over Waiyaki. He knew now that he was not wanted by them in spite of all he had done for the hills. And the words of his father came back to him. But they rejected Mugo, his thin boy's voice had queried. Let them do what they like. A time will come when they shall cry for a saviour.

Had the time come? Was Kabonyi the saviour they were crying for? And what would Kabonyi do? He would only destroy what Waiyaki had built. But no, he could not. Surely there was a soul; a heart where at least what Waiyaki had done had taken root. And the teachers who were coming! They would carry on the work. The voices singing death became louder and louder. He thought they were coming towards Joshua's house. He went back to the hut to make one more desperate appeal.

"Be careful. They may be coming here".

"Go, go out of here. Get thee behind me, Satan."

Joshua was fierce. He hated the young man with the hatred which a man of God towards Satan. There was another murmur in the room. Then silence reigned as Nyambura walked across towards Waiyaki while all the eyes watched her.

Waiyaki and Joshua must have both been struck by her grace and mature youthfulness. She held Waiyaki's hand and said what no other girl at that time would have dared to say, what she herself could not have done a few days before.

"You are brave and I love you."

Joshua woke up from his stupor. He would never have thought that this meek, quite and obedient daughter could be capable of such an action. He rushed towards her and was about to lay his hands on her when he realised that this was another temptation brought to him by Satan. Christ in him must triumph at his hour of trial. Waiyaki and Nyambura were standing near a door.

"For me and my house we will serve the Lord," Joshua declared, pointing at Nyambura with a forefinger of his right hand. "You are not my daughter. Yet let me warn you/" he continued, his voice changing from one of fiery anger to one calm sorrow, "you will come to an untimely end. Go!"

As if in a dream, Waiyaki and Nyambura went out. Miriamu was weeping and saying, "Don't let her go. Don't, "while the others remained silent wondering what curse had befallen Joshua's house.

- a) Place this extract in its immediate context. (4mks)
- b) Other than Mugo, who else had been rejected by the people when he warned them against the white man? (1 mk)
- c) "He would only destroy what Waiyaki had built." State what is being referred to in the above statement. (3mks)
- d) "For me and my house we will serve the lord," Joshua Declared. (Convert into reported speech). (1 mk)
- e) Describe the character of Joshua and Nyambura as seen in this excerpt.

(4mks)

- f) "You are not my daughter ....." Who else had been disowned by Joshua and why? (2mks)
- g) Why was the crowd calling Waiyaki a traitor? (4mks)
- h) Identify and illustrate ONE theme evident in the excerpt. (2mks)
- i) From your knowledge of the rest of the text, what happens later to Waiyaki and Nyambura?

23. Read the following excerpt and answer the questions that follow. 20 marks

DR STOCKMANN: Don't swear to that, Katherine. To be called a nasty name may have the same effect as a pin-scratch in the lung. And such a name - I can't get it out of my mind. It is sticking here in the pit of my stomach, eating into me like a corrosive acid. And no soda bicarb will remove it.

PETRA: Bah! You should only laugh at them, father,

HORSTER: They will change their minds someday, doctor.

MRS STOCKMANN: Yes, Thomas, as sure as you are standing here.

DR STOCKMANN: Perhaps, when it is too late. Much good may it do them!

They may then wallow in their filth and curse the day they drove a patriot into exile. By the way, when do you sail, Captain Horster?

HORSTER: Hm! That was just what I had come to speak about...

DR. STOCKMANN: Why, has anything gone wrong with the ship?

HORSTER: No; but what has happened is that I am not to sail in it.

PETRA: Do you mean that you have been dismissed?

HORSTER: (smiling): yes, that's just it.

PETRA: You too!

MRS. STOCKMANN: There, you see, Thomas!

DR. STOCKMANN: And that for the truth's sake! Oh, if I had thought such a thing possible...

HORSTER: You mustn't take it to heart; I shall be sure to find a job with some company or other, elsewhere.

DR. STOCKMANN: I'm surprised at this man Vik - a wealthy man independent of everyone and everything....! Shame on him!

HORSTER: He is quite a good fellow; he told me that he would willingly have kept me on, if only he had dared...

DR. STOCKMANN: But he didn't dare? No, of course not.

HORSTER: It is not such an easy matter, he said, for a party man...

DR. STOCKMANN: The worthy man spoke the truth. A party is like a sausage machine; it mashes up all sorts of heads together into the same mincemeat of fatheads and blockheads.

MRS STOCKMANN: Come, now, Thomas dear!

- a) What name has Dr. Stockmann been given? Explain the effect it has on him. (4mks)
- b) Illustrate and explain the imagery used in the extract. (4mks)
- c) Why does Dr. Stockmann refer to himself as a patriot? (4mks)

- d) Dr. Stockmann may find Mr. Vik's behaviour ironical. Why do you think this could be so? (3mks)
- e) Write the following sentences according to the instructions given. (2mks)
- (i) They will change their minds some day. (Write in a passive form)
- (ii) "Do you mean that you have been dismissed"? She asked, (change into the reported speech)
- f) Give one character trait for each of the following characters as portrayed in the extract. (3mks)
- (i) Petra
- (ii) Captain Horster
- (iii) Mrs Stockmann

24. Read the following excerpt and answer the questions that follow

DR. STOCKMANN: That will be alright; I have finished all my morning visits.

MRS. STOCKMANN: I am extremely curious to know how he takes it.

DR. STOCKMANN: He will not like the fact that is I, and not he, that made the discovery.

MRS. STOCKMANN: Aren't you a little nervous about that?

MR. STOCKMANN: Oh, he really will be pleased enough, you know. But, at the same time, peter hates the idea of someone doing any service to the town except himself.

MRS. STOCKMANN: I will tell you what, Thomas -you should be good natured, and share the credit with him. Couldn't you drop a hint that it was he who set you on the scent of this discovery?

MR. STOCKMANN: I am quite willing. If only I can get the thing set right. I...

(MORTEN KILL: Puts his head in through the door leading from the hall, looks around in an enquiring manner, and chuckles.)

MORTEN KILL: (slyly): Is it - is it true?

MRS. STOCKMANN: (going to the door): Father! -is it you?

DR. STOCKMANN: Ah, good morning, father-in-law!

MRS. STOCKMANN: But come along in.

MORTEN KILL: If it is true, I will; if not, I am off.

DR. STOCKMANN: If what is true?

MORTEN KILL: This queer tale about the water supply, is it true?

DR. STOCKMANN: Certainly it is true, but how did you come to hear about it?

MORTEN KILL: (Coming in): Petra looked in on her way to the school...

DR. STOCKMANN: Did she?

MORTEN KILL: Yes; and she declares that - I thought she was only making a fool of me - but it isn't like Petra to do that.

DR. STOCKMANN: Of course not. You sure don't imagine Petra would do a thing like that!

MORTEN KILL: Oh well, it is better never to trust anybody; you may find you have been fooled before you know where you are. But is it really true, all the same?

DR. STOCKMANN: You can depend upon it that it is true. Won't you sit down?

(Settles him on the couch.) Isn't it a real bit of luck for the town...

MORTEN KILL: (Suppressing his laughter): A bit of the luck for the town?

DR. STOCKMANN: Yes, that I made the discovery in good time.

MORTEN KILL: (As before): Yes, yes, yes! But I should never have thought you the sort of a man to pull your own brother's leg like this!

DR. STOCKMANN: Pull his leg!

MRS. STOCKMANN: Really, father dear...

MORTEN KILL: (Resting his hands and his chin on the handle of his stick and winking slyly at the DOCTOR): Let me see, what was the story? Some little creatures that had got into the water - pipes, wasn't it?

DR. STOCKMANN: Bacteria - yes.

MORTEN KILL: And a lot of these creatures had got in, according to Petra - a tremendous lot.

DR. STOCKMANN: Certainly; hundreds of thousands of them, probably.

MORTEN KILL: But no one can see them - isn't that so?

DR. STOCKMANN: Yes; you can't see them.

MORTEN KILL: (With a quite chuckle): Damn - It's the finest story I have ever heard?

DR. STOCKMANN: What do you mean?

MORTEN KILL: But you will never get the mayor to believe a thing like this.

DR. STOCKMANN: We shall see.

MORTEN KILL: Do you think he will be fools enough to...?

DR. STOCKMANN: I hope the whole town will be fools enough.

MORTEN KILL: The whole town! Well, it wouldn't be a bad thing. It would just serve them right, and teach them a lesson. They think themselves smarter than we old fellows. They hounded me out of the council; they did, I tell you - they hounded me but. Now they shall pay for it. You pull their legs too, Thomas!

DR. STOCKMANN: Really, I...

MORTEN KILL: You pull their legs! (Gets up). If you can work it so that the mayor and his friends all swallow the same bait, I will give ten pounds to charity on the spot!

DR. STOCKMANN: That is very good of you.

MORTEN KILL: Yes, I haven't got much money to throw away, I can tell you; but, if you work this, I will give five pounds to charity this Christmas.

- a) Explain what happens immediately before this extract. (2mks)
- b) He will not like the fact that is I, and not he, that made the discovery.
Identify the parenthesis in the statement. (1mk)
- c) Discuss the character trait of the following as portrayed in the extract. (3mks)

- (i) Peter Stockmann
  - (ii) Mrs. Stockmann
  - (iii) Morten Kill
- d) How does Morten Kill view the whole report of the doctor's discovery?
(3mks)
- e) Explain the meanings of these words and phrases as used in the extract.
(5mks)
- (i) Queer tale
  - (ii) Looked in on
  - (iii) Pull your own brother's leg
  - (iv) Bait
  - (v) Charity
- f) Comment on the statement "Isn't it a real bit of luck for the town". (2mks)
- g) Rewrite as you add the correct question tag. (2mks)
- (i) You pull their legs!
  - (ii) I will give ten pounds to charity on the spot!

25. Read the following excerpt and answer the questions that follow

PETER STOCKMANN: As usual, you employ rather strong expressions in your report. You say, amongst other things, that what we offer visitors in our Baths is a permanent supply of slow poison.

DR. STOCKMANN: Well, can you explain it any other way, peter? Just think now - water that is poisonous, whether you drink it or bathe in it! And this we offer the poor sick folk who come to us trustfully and pay through the nose to be cured!

PETER STOCKMANN: And your reasoning leads you to this conclusion, that we must build a sewer to carry off the alleged impurities from Molledal and must relay the water conduits.

DR. STOCKMANN: Yes. Do you see any other way out of it? I don't.

PETER STOCKMANN: I made an excuse this morning to go and see the town engineer, and, as if only half seriously, broached the subject as a thing we might perhaps have to consider some time later on.

DR. STOCKMANN: Sometime later on!

PETER STOCKMANN: Naturally, he just laughed at what he considered to be my extravagance. Have you taken the trouble to consider what your proposed alterations would cost? According to the information I obtained, the expenses would probably amount to forty or fifty thousand pounds.

DR. STOCKMANN: Really? As much as all that, eh?

PETER STOCKMANN: Yes; and the worst part of it is that the work would take at least two years.

DR. STOCKMANN: Two years? Two whole years?

PETER STOCKMANN: At least. And what are we going to do with the Baths in the meantime? We would have to close them. And do you suppose anyone would come near the place again once it got out that the water is dangerous?

DR. STOCKMANN: Yes, but peter, that is what it is.

PETER STOCKMANN: And all this has to happen now - just when the Baths are beginning to be known. There are other towns in the neighbourhood . With qualifications to attract visitors for bathing purposes. Don't you suppose they would immediately strain every nerve to divert the entire stream of visitors to themselves? We should probably have to abandon the whole costly undertaking -and then you would have ruined your own town...!

DR. STOCKMANN: Me - Ruined ...!

PETER STOCKMANN: It is simply and solely through the Baths that the town has any future worth mentioning. You know that just as well as I do.

DR. STOCKMANN: But what do you think should be done, then?

PETER STOCKMANN: Your report has not convinced me that the state of the water at the Baths is as bad as you make it sound!

DR. STOCKMANN: I tell you it is even worse! -Or at least it will be in summer, when the warm weather comes.

PETER STOCKMANN: As I said, I believe you exaggerate the matter considerably. A competent doctor ought to know what measure to take - he ought to be capable of taking precautionary measures and remedy any noticeable injurious effects; if any.

DR. STOCKMANN: Well? And what then?

PETER STOCKMANN: The water supply for the Baths is now an established fact, and in consequence must be treated as such. But probably the committee, at its discretion, will not be disinclined to consider effecting certain improvements in light of the prevailing financial situation.

DR. STOCKMANN: And do you suppose that I will have anything to do with that sort of trickery?

PETER STOCKMANN: Trickery!!

DR. STOCKMANN: Yes, it would be a trick – a fraud, a lie, a downright crime towards the public, towards society!

PETER STOCKMANN: I have not, as I remarked before, been able to convince myself that there is actually any imminent danger.

DR. STOCKMANN: You have! It is impossible that you should not be convinced. I know i have represented the facts absolutely correctly and clearly. And you know it very well, Peter, only you won't acknowledge it. You were responsible for the fact that that Baths and the water conduits were built where they are; and that is what you won't admit - that damned blunder of yours. Pooh! - do you suppose I can't see right through you?

PETER STOCKMANN: And even that were true? If I perhaps guard my reputation somewhat anxiously, it is only for the good of the town. Without moral authority (am powerless to direct public affairs as seems, to my judgement, to be best for the common good. And on the account - and for various other reasons too - it appears to me to be vital that your report should not be delivered to the committee. In the interests of the public, it must be withheld. Then, later on, I will raise the question and we will not do our best, quietly; but, not a whisper of this unfortunate affair, not a single word of it - must come to the ears of the public.

DR. STOCKMANN: I am afraid you will not be able to prevent that now, my dear Peter.

PETER STOCKMANN: It must and will be prevented.

DR. STOCKMANN: It is no use, I tell you. Too many people know about it, already.

PETER STOCKMANN: Who? Surely you don't mean those fellows on the People's Messenger?

DR. STOCKMANN: Yes, they know. The free, independent press is going to see that you do your duty.

PETER STOCKMANN: (after a short pause): You are an extraordinarily reckless man, Thomas. Have you given no thought to the consequences this may have for yourself?

- a) What had happened before this extract? (1mk)
- b) According to Peter Stockmann, what are the Doctor's suggestions to rectify the contamination at the Baths? (1mk)
- c) In a summary of one hundred words, what are the consequences of adopting/implementing the Doctor's report according to Peter Stockmann? (5mks)
- d) Identify and explain any two literary devices used in the extract. (4mks)
- e) From your knowledge of the text, does the free, independent press see to it that Peter Stockmann does his duty? Explain why? (4mks)
- f) What consequences does the Doctor face the failure to heed to Peter's advice of leaving the report of the Bath's condition to him? (5mks)

- g) Explain the meaning of the following words and phrases as used in the extract. (2mks)
- (i) Pay through the nose
  - (ii) Imminent
- h) Does Peter Stockmann give any guarantee of taking consideration the Doctors report? (2mks)

26. Read the following excerpt and answer the questions that follow

DR. STOCKMANN: ....they have tried to intimidate me, to make a coward of me, to force me to put personal interests above my most sacred convictions.

BILLING: That is outrageous - I'm damned if it isn't.

HOVSTAD: Oh, you mustn't be surprised at anything from that crowd.

DR. STOCKMANN: Well, they will get the worst of it with me; they can rest assured of that. I shall consider the People's Messenger my arsenal now, and every single day I will bombard them with one article after another, like bombshells...

ASLAKSEN: Yes, but look here...

BILLING: Hurrah! It is war, it is war!

DR. STOCKMANN: I shall crush them - I shall break down all their defences, before the eyes of the honest public! That is what I shall do!

ASLAKSEN: Yes, but with moderation, Doctor - proceed with moderation.

BILLING: Not a bit of moderation, I say! Don't spare the dynamite!

DR. STOCKMANN: Because it is not merely a question of water-supply and drains now, you know. No - it is the whole of our social life that has got to be purified and disinfected...

BILLING: Spoken like a saviour!

DR. STOCKMANN: All the bunglers must be turned out, you understand - and that in every nook of life! Endless vistas have opened themselves to my mind's eye today. I cannot see it all quite clearly yet, but I shall in time. Young blood and vigorous standard-bearers - those are what we need and must seek, my friends; we must have new men in command at all our outposts.

BILLING: Hear, hear!

DR. STOCKMANN: We only need to stand together, and it will all be perfectly easy. The revolution will be launched like a ship that runs smoothly off the stocks. Don't you think so?

HOVSTAD: Personally, I think we now have good prospects of getting the municipal authority into the right hands at last!

ASLAKSEN: And if only we proceed with moderation, I don't think there will be any risk.

DR. STOCKMANN: Who the devil cares whether there is any risk or not! What I am doing I am doing in the name of truth and for the sake of my conscience?

HOVSTAD: You deserve to be supported, Doctor.

ASLAKSEN: Yes, there is no denying that the Doctor is a true friend of the town - a real friend to society.

BILLING: Take my word for it, Aslaksen, Dr. Stockmann is a friend of the people.

ASLAKSEN: I fancy the Householders' Association will adopt that expression before long.

DR. STOCKMANN (Affected, grasps their hands): Thank you, thank you, my dear friends. It is very refreshing to hear you say that; my brother called me something quite different. By Jove, he shall have it back, with interest! But now I must be off to see a patient - I will come back, as I said. Keep a very careful eye on the manuscript, Asiaksen, and don't leave out any exclamation mark. If anything, you can add one or two more! Well, goodbye for now - goodbye, goodbye!
(They show him to the door, and bow him out.)

HOVSTAD: He may prove an invaluable useful man to us.

ASLAKSEN: Yes, so long as he confines himself to this matter of the Baths. But if he goes beyond that, I don't think it would be prudent to follow him.

HOVSTAD: Hm! - that all depends...

BILLING: You are so infernally timid, Aslaksen!

ASLAKSEN: Timid? Yes, when it is a question of the local authorities, I am cautious, Mr. Billing; it is a lesson I have learned in the school of experience, let me tell you. But try me in high politics, in matters that concern the concern the government itself, and then see if I am timid.

BILLING: No, you aren't, I admit. But this is simply contradicting yourself.

ASLAKSEN: I am a man with a conscience, and that is the whole matter. If you attack the government, you don't do the community any harm, anyway; those fellows, pay no attention to attacks, you see - they go on just as they are, in spite of them. But local authorities are different; they can be turned out, and then perhaps you may get a more ignorant lot into office who may do irreparable harm to the householders and everybody else.

HOVSTAD: But what about the progressive education of citizens in civic responsibilities - don't you attach any importance to that?

ASLAKSEN: When a man has solid interests of his own to protect, he cannot think of everything, Mr. Hovstad.

HOVSTAD: Then I hope I shall never have solid interests of my own to protect!

BILLING: Hear, hear!

ASLAKSEN: (with a smile): Hm! (points to the desk.) Mr. Stensgaard was your predecessor at that editorial desk. He used to be Sheriff.

BILLING: (spitting): Bah! That turncoat!

HOVSTAD: I am not a time-server - and will never be.

ASLAKSEN: A politician should never be too certain of anything, Hovstad. And as for you, Mr. Billing, I think it is time for you to be taking in a reef or two in your sails, seeing that you have applied for the post of secretary to the Council.

- a) What may have led Dr. Stockmann to utter the words in the first speech of the extract? Explain what he means in that speech. (3mks)

27. Read the following oral poem and answer the questions that follow.

After a brief struggle I got myself a job;

My food was meat and banana flour.

A hundred ants a month and soon I had some

Money

Soon after wards I bought myself a beautiful girl.

My heart was telling time this was a fortune,

So heart you were deceiving me and I believed you.

On a Saturday morning I was leaving work;

I was thinking I was being awaited at home.

But on arrival! couldn't find my bride.

Nor was she in her parents' home

I run fast to a river valley;

What I saw gave me a shock –

There was my wife conversing

With her lovers.

I sat and silently wept;

I realized there was no lack

In this world

People are not trustworthy and will never be

Girls are not trustworthy and will never be!

7. City life.

1. Mood: Solemn – “No hope for us – death awaits – mourns their plight.
Angry / Agitated - about the level of exploitation in the city.
2. (a) Repetition - Back and forth, to work ___ emphasizes the monotony and oppressiveness / humanizing conditions of the work; have no say ____ treated as robots.
b) Image of the fisherman hooked. He is insensitive "like fishes similarly the factory owners have the lives of the workers at their mercy; dangle the pay (meagre) as carrot (bait)
c) Irony
Line 1. The poet refers great city exploitation. _ to a yet it
.breeds suffering /
3. The persona views the city as an "enticing death trap which attracts people there but milks their labour leaving them to die slowly.
4. Pained expression on the face the persona is annoyed about the plight of the workers in the factory. This should be evident on the face.
5. Something malignant is dangerous or can cause death e.g.. a malignant type of cancer, similarly the malignant fisherman gives idea of an employer who exploits the workers (in the city) and leaves them for death.
The comparison is apt of: Benign Form of ailment

8. BETROTHED BY OBYERO QDHIAMBO

1. About the handling of bride price, marriage negotiations e.g.. "The bride, they said. Had gone through school (2 mks)

2. Education - Had gone through school primary, secondary.

Beauty - silk, black hair, forehead etc Morally upright - "She is pure" Intelligent - Deep profound intelligent. (Any two illustrate 2x2 = 4)

3. Darker, finer (2 mks)

4. Two diviner's cowries spread out symbolically on the divination mat (enchanted beauty). Deep profound intelligent (she can explain extra - ordinary things).

NB

Comparison must be clearly brought out. (4 mks)

9. The Brewing Night

- a) The poem is about a coup that takes place at night. At the end of the poem it is indicated that the people are happy with the change.
- b) The night was silent, dark, and strange: the clock wouldn't cry.
- c) I did not know what was amiss.
- d) He or she saw soldiers in heavy boots, thick uniform and solid helmets walking in a determined way along the streets.
- e) Stanza two sets the mood of the poem. Things are not happening in the usual way and this prepares the stage for what we find in stanza three.
- f) Brewing night -refers to the night when something unpleasant in this case the coup was hatched up.
- g) In stanza one 'sleep' is said to 'mock' and tantalize the persona.
- h) The poet is critical of the events of the coup. This is seen in the discomforts he or she relates to the night when the events happen the words he or she uses to describe the soldiers and the way he or she describes the celebrations -"the country strangely dressed".
- i) The last stanza gives the preparation for the inauguration of the .new leaders are posted on the streets .A rally is held where the new leaders give their speeches and the people accept the new leaders. ., . .

10.

- (a). The persona empathizes with the tribulations of a caged bird. He uses the refrain "I know what the caged bird feels" It is evident he (persona) has suffered similar tribulations. This is evident in his emphatic use of the words. "I know why the bird has no freedom. It is caged. It cannot enjoy or experience the beautiful things of life because he is enslaved inside the cage the bird sends an earnest prayer for someone outside or heavens to hear his cry for freedom. (3 mks)
- (b). Stanza 1 - the focus is on the physical beauty of nature which the caged bird is deprived. Stanza 2 - focus is on the curtailed freedom of movement the caged bird is subjected to. Stanza 3 - Focus is on the desperation of the caged bird which makes it beat its bars, get bruised yet it still continues to sing. (6 mks)
- (c). He is sympathetic
He says - "I know what the caged bird feels I know why the caged bird beats his wing. When his wing is bruised and his blossom sore. (4 mks)
- (d). He seems to have had similar experiences as the caged bird.
This evident when he says, "I know what the caged bird feels".
He also repeats the phrase "I know why ..... (3 mks)
- (e). Simile - And the river flows like a stream of glass.
Effect - To show that the caged bird is not able to enjoy the beauty of nature owing to its state of captivity. (2 mks)
- (f). (i) The Line refers to the sweet fragrance of nature's flowers (1 mk)
(ii) The experiences of the caged bird evoke similar painful experiences of the persona.

11. a) The person is probably in prison/detention or some form of confinement. The persona is longing to get out. “when I get out”
(3mks)
- b) By “touch” he/she means being treated like a human being, loving and being loved. “Touch” means the freedom to express his or her emotions freely/spontaneously “Touch” may also mean mistreatment e.g. beating, harassment, torment etc. (3mks)
- c) during the seven years of confinement, the the persona has been treated like a Pariah. He/she says, “I ‘ve learnt to know the meaning of “untouchable”. The persona experienced utmost....” Finally, the persona experienced utmost indignity. He she was humiliated and denied any form of privacy.....” searching – arm up, shoes off, legs apart – probing away all privacy.” The personal suffers loneliness – “I have not been touched for seven years. (Any two illustrated points 2 marks) each = (4mks)
- d) The word “Paws” vividly describes the beastly behavior of the tormentor. (Animals like hyenas and lions have paws they use to tear their prey to pieces) The word reveals the cruelty visited on the personal and the attempts to disfigure and mutilate him/her physically and emotionally.
(2mks)
- e) The poet uses repetition to emphasize his message. The word “touch” for example, is repeated more than ten times- both to explain the kind of touch that is desirable and that which is resented. Also emphasis through the enumeration and the pauses (one...two...

This brings out the form/types of mistreatment

Alliteration – fierce fist

Rhyme-beginning, beating, screaming

Metaphors- paws

Symbolism- touch to symbolize loveliness (any one device = 2 marks)

- f) Prodding- poking /jabbing (1mark)
- Indifferent- callous/inhuman/beastly/cruel/harsh (1mark)
- g) The poem reveals that human beings abhor confinement/brutality and all forms of degrading treatment. On the other hand, people crave for when one is denied the latter, one in away, “dies”. The persona says “I want to feel alive again.” (4mks)
12. a) She admires them and believes she will indeed look nice in them. (1mk)
- Illust; “In this season’s styles she says that fit perfectly” (2mks)
- b) the expression; ... but wobbles on their high heels, they’re hard to balance. (1mk)
- c) -He admires the neat hops-and-skips of her
- Their quick peck
- The fact that the neat hops-and-skips never miss their mark
- Not over-stepping the line. (4pts=4mks)

- d) The persona points out his own distorted feet. The callouses, odd patches of hard skin (2mks)
- e) The poet notes that life is full of challenges (1mk) and the young (Exuberant) are advised to tread carefully lest they fall in to pitfalls. (1mk)
- The older generation as opposed to the youth (naïve) have acquired experience in life and are best suited to advice the youth to tread carefully and control their youthful exuberance. (1mk)
- Illust; “I wish she would stay sure fotted” (accept any 2 illusts = 2mk)
- f) Cautionary tone; (1mk)
- g) the persona does not wish t see the girl face the same pitfalls that he endured
- Or
- The persona notes with regret that had he been a bit careful/ less careless/less carefree, he might have avoided the pitfalls that have befallen him. (2mks)
13. a) State of health care
- Lack of basic medical facilities such as gloves
  - Negligence – “the man with the key to the oxygen room was on leave
  - Overcrowding queues
  - Insensitivity / callousness on the part of the medical staff personnel
- b) i) It set the stage for subsequent questions

ii) It expresses the persona's disgust /anger/displeasure (not happy) with the pre-occupation of the press with the minister's son's illness

The persona is saying : It is not worth worrying about the one who has access to proper medical care like the minister's son –instead people / the press should be concerned with /about the needy. (two side)

iii) The persona is venting his anger on the press which has failed to highlight the plight of the needy, the corruption the justice the neglect such as he enumerates (Failure of the media- without bringing in the minister's son. But anger should be seen).\

c) Hyperbole/Metaphor

Mountain deal making a mountain out of a mole hill. This persona is complaining that the newspapers are making such a big deal of an ordinary/usual situation just because of the personality involved. Hypocrisy of the press.

Hyperbole/metaphor- boiling news

Hot news; that the news is very important; that is an instance of hyperbole to underline the general irony of the poem.

METAPHOR-

Lioness of a nurse the inhumanness the harshness, the beastly or bestial nature of the behaviour, devoid of the maternal instinct.

Any two figures of speech explained)

- d) i) The problem is of injustice /lack of concern for the disadvantaged Either the excuse of throwing out the case—
--- The seven – year – old was probably undergoing some form of medical treatment at the time the case was being heard ____ The seven – year- old may have been too traumatized/scared/young. --- might have died.

OR

INJUSTICES;

----- discrimination/favouritism----- as found in stanza 1 on the minister's son.

-----lack of concern -----as evident in stanza 2 on the lack of care as Tina's bed crawled with maggots.

----Negligence ----(stanza 3) when Kasajja's only child died.

----Negligence ----(stanza 3) when Kasajja's only child died.

-----insecurity/callousness (stanza 4) when the nurse tells a woman who has fainted to get up or leave the line.

- e) i) Oozed ----- flowed slowly and in small quantities;
discharged
ii) Emaciated-Extremely thin and weak; wasted
iii) Translucent- something through which light can pass/almost allowing light to pass through/having lost its natural color/perhaps pale/allowing some light through almost transparent

f) ---- it relates the poem to the title, that persona who is known as Peter, is engaged in supposedly foolish talk; that he is just bubbling about the state of things in society.

-----that the tipsy explosions are as a result of drink; but they are explosions nonetheless of important and relevant issues.

----- the last stanza underscores the irony of the poem; that the subject matter is serious and yet it is given to as tipsy talk; that even drunks can say things of at most importance; that the normal leave such serious issues to the crazy;

-----The last stanza is an ironic under statement of the evils in this society. (Any three of the above)

14. a) The poem is about an encounter between a black man and a young white girl (1)

_____ the young white girl has probably not seen a black man before and she is amazed/dumb founded. The poem exposes the ignorance that exists between the races.

_____ the man allows the child to examine him / the mother drags the girl away before she fully satisfies her curiosity. (1mk)

- b) _____ Her reaction makes him feel as if she did not consider him a human being. (1mk)
- Illustration _____ “No fur no scale no feathers _____ (Details from stanza 3)
- He is friendly/understanding. (1mk)
- Illustration= “ I turned with hello” (1 mk)
- He appears to cope/ feels comfortable with the girls reaction /is not surprised / not embarrassed. (1mk)
- Illustration; “I turned with hello/hallo I smiled again and watched _____ He does not condemn her / he accepts the girl’s reaction as innocent curiosity. (1mk)
- Illustration; “Just a live silhouette/as I watched then birds were singing (1mk) (Any two illustrated feeling)
- c) Both are;
- Shocked = the mother is horrified bit the girls eyes get wider but not her lips
- The contrast= the girl is genuine / sincere /innocent while the mother is prejudiced/discriminative/contemptuous/hostile
- Illustration ----- the girl, “is tummy black?” ----- the mother; she is horrified and “ grasped her hand and swung toward the crowd”.
- d) The poet uses SIMILES -----“ I like a giraffe and she a mouse” . This helps to show the enormous contrast in size between the persona and the girl.

-“she stood as lovely as light”. This shows much the persona was impressed by her sincere, innocent curiosity. She was merely awe-struck, natural and spontaneous- nothing like the narrow judgmental attitude of the mother.

HYPERBOLE:-

No fur no scale no feathers no shell. This is deliberate exaggeration meant to show the immensity of the child’s dilemma. She has never seen such a man an animal, or a bird /she wondered -----

METAPHOR

“Just a alive silhouette, wild and strange and compulsive “To the persona the child was completely incapable of becoming reconciled to the fact that this was a human being. The metaphor portrays her mental conflict. (Any two- with identification and explanation)

- e) The last line suggests that:
  - i) Despite the racial difference/racial prejudices life must go on 1)
  - ii) nature is not as man 1)
  - iii) Nature stays in harmony while man with ability to reason behave senselessly 1)

- 15. a) _____ belief in life after death; illust = “ ---- then from three much more must flow”
-----Belief in eternal life; illust =

“Death, nor yet canst kill me”

_____ Death only affects the physical; but the soul lives on; illust=

“ and death shall be no more. Death though shalt die.”

(_____ the souls of good people are rewarded; illust = “rest of their bones and soul’s delivery”

_____ Death is a temporary / transitional state; illust = “One short sleep, past, we wake eternally. (Any two illustrated point).

- b)
  - i) Death does not really kill; and it will not kill the persona
  - ii) We shall derive more pleasure from death/through death we are delivered /get rest/it’s nice to die
  - iii) Death should not boast because it has no power of its own /since it can be manipulated /used by others .
- c)
  - i) PERSONIFICATION; this draws more attention to it/makes death real.
  - ii) RHYME; Creates beauty / rhythm/music /interest/makes the poem memorable
  - iii) REPETITION; To create cumulative effect/emphasizes the futility of death/enhances rhythm.
  - iv) Alliteration; Creates rhythm /stress or emphasizes/makes the poem memorable.
  - v) Use of IRONY/PARADOX; the fact that death himself will die

_____ the main message of the poem.

- vi) Assonance; Creates rhythm / stress or emphasis/ interest/ makes the poem memorable
- vii) Rhetoric Question; involves the reader to reason or think.
- viii) Metaphor; “Sleep” tones down the fear of death.
- ix) METRE; (beat) – adds musicality /rhythm to the poem

(Any three features and their function)

- d) That death serves/ is a subservient/it can be used / not its own master/ is a servant (1mk) to fate, chance, kings since desperate men who kill in desperation / commit suicide/kings execute their subjects/illness/fate causing death (1mk)
- e) ----- a new twist in the argument entering into eternal life and defeat of death/paradoxical / ironical ----- the two lines clinch / summarize the argument of the poem.

- a) The poem addresses the issue of love being an overwhelming consuming feelings that totally controls individuals. It is also indescribable feeling exhibited in different forms/ways. (2mks)

Illustration

-‘Love is fire

Hot blazing”

-“Love is a chameleon”

- “Hard remorseless love”

-“Hard remorseless love”

(2 illust = 2mks)

b) Madness - Takes control of the one experiencing it.

Fire- love consumes

Chameleon- Love is an indescribable feeling /does not have a specific form

(2mks each =6mks)

c) By addressing love directly, the persona is showing the apparent desperation on the part of the persona. The persona is imploring love to enable him to experience the true feeling of being in love.

By directly addressing love we can emphasize with the narrator and better understand his state of mind.

d) It is ironical that the persona desires to feel love yet he begs love to put out its blazing flame.

e) Brutal- cruel/violent

Camouflaged/disguised/hidden

Remorseless-cruel/uncaring.

17. The Road not taken

a) Either: the poem is not about making choices/decisions. It is irresponsible in life to have everything that seems desirable.

- What we chose influences our destiny.

- In choosing one thing, we forge something else.

- And that once a choice is made you have to learn to live with its consequences/outcome/result/eventualities.

Or (literal/surface meaning)

- The road/path in which he is traveling dirges/folks into equally attractive, thereby forcing the traveler to select one of them.
- The persona hopes to explore the road not taken (by him) in future but he knows that it could be impossible to do so.
- He regrets the fact that making the choice one way or the other limits the persona's freedom and as it were closes the door on the other choice

b) Symbolism/allegory

..... road/path/way = option or choices

.....Yellow wood =unknown, yet to be uncovered through exploration.

.....Undergrowth = confusion/indecision/obstacles to be overcome.

Personification

....Road/path seen as having the better claim a road an inanimate object but described in human term as influencing the choice of the persona.

Contrast

--- Two roads, one not traveled and other well traveled on. This indicates the difficulty in making choices in life.

Repetition

Two roads, “I” and the word “and” _____ emphasize the difficulty in making a choice + ages/ ages, way /way.

Rhyme

_____ “Would” -stood” – create rhythm/ makes the poem interesting/memorable /musical.

(Candidate should first identify, then explain what has been identified)

- c) i) The road not well trodden/used.
It needed someone to walk on it/ clean it.
Or
It was more challenging/difficult option to take/
It seemed less popular/people avoided it.
- ii) The persona means that he did not select the first alternative but he hopes to explore it in future
- iii) The road taken (1mk) has led /has determined the destination of the persona
Or
The choice made has forever determined his destiny/fate/hopefully for the better
- d) ----The title may be alluding to the road/option that the persona did not take (1mk) but which seems to have been taken by many 1 mk

---- The title may be alluding to the road/ option that the persona took (1mk) but which is not taken by many --- the biblical allusion.

1. The writer does not believe the arguments for the death penalty are sound and fool-proof enough to justify its existence. The feelings instead of simple logic.
2. Retribution means meting out punishment that is commensurate to the crime; if one has killed and then he or she is killed in return.
3. “an eye for an eye” can be identified by the phrase pay the offender back in his or her own coin
4. Retribution leads to further damage by destroying the offenders life. It finally also denies the offenders the chance to repent and reform.
5. It is not justice to kill a person who has killed another because killing is wrong . No kind of killing can be regarded as justice because it is a violation of the fundamental human right to life. Hanging does not leave any room for correction in case a person is unjustly or wrongly condemned.
6. We would know if the death penalty is a deterrent if we had statistics to prove that murder and other capital offences are more prevalent in societies with out the death penalty is a deterrent if we had statistics to prove that murder and other capital offences are more prevalent in societies with out the death penalty than I those which have it moreover one would also need to prove why certain crimes are not committed.
7. Hanging electrocution and poison injections
8. Two wrongs do not make a right do they?

9. Death penalty is revenge not reform. All killing thirdly people may be wrongly condemned to death. Fourthly execution may not necessarily deter crime. Finally execution brutalize those involved in it.

10. a) Commensurate – Equivalent

b) Untenable – not able to be maintained or defended against attack or objection.

- a) - In the editorial office of the people's messenger/newspaper. (2mks)
- b) - His scientific report on the Baths. (1mk)
  - The report says that the baths are polluted with bacteria that cause diseases such as typhoid and gastric fever/the baths pose a danger to public health. (1mk)
  - The effluent from the tannery that flows into the baths has infected the water in the conduit pipes /the same water oozes out onto the shore
  - All the effluent at molledal is infecting the water in the conduit pipes leading to the reservoir
  - The same field oozes out on the shore.
  - It causes typhoid and gastric fever
  - The presence of the decomposing organic matter in the water (both drinking and sea water)

- All the conduit pipes will have to be relaid
- The intake is too low down. It will have to be moved much higher up
- Contamination of the water is due to impurities in the soil
- We will have to build a sewer to carry off the alleged impurities from molledal

(Accept any 3x1 =3 mks)

c)

- The repairs being suggested by Dr Stockmann would take a long time.
- The repairs would cost too much money
- The money will have to be paid by the rate payers/tax payers.
- The Baths are the “nerve-centre” of the town, and, therefore, implementing Dr Stockmann’s recommendations would paralyze the economy of the town.
- The Baths would be shut down
- The middle class of this town, who have the greatest stake in the baths, could be adversely affected by the closure of the Baths.
- The tourist industry in this town would be adversely affected
- The whole thing is merely imagination
- The house holders will have nothing to live on.
- No one will visit them again once they are declared dangerous/vistors will be diverted to neighboring towns
- The report is exaggerated

- The committee will consider effecting some improvements in line with the prevailing financial situation
- It is no small sacrifice that the town is going to make
- It will be necessary to raise a municipal loan.
- The money will come from the pocket of small middle class men
- The proprietors of the Baths are not in a position to incur any further expense. (4mks)

d)

  - The people turn against him and denounce him as" an enemy of The people".
  - They heckle him at the meeting he addresses later. (1mk)
  - He revises his views of the masses and later thinks they are incapable of understanding. (2mks)
  - The man who counted on the support and solidarity of the masses later concludes that "the strongest man is the one who stands alone". (4mks)
- f) - That he will not print his article (1mk) and that they will not support him/that they don't agree with his views. (1mk)
- g) - Interrupted by Mrs. Stockmann. (1mk)
  - Mrs. Stockman is worried about the effect of her husband's activism on their family.
  - she is intervening on behalf of her family because she believes Hovstad and Aslaksen have duped her husband
  - She wants to curb what she regards as her husband's recklessness or his reckless idealism.
- 21. a) Corruption in the municipal council.
- b) - Officials are corrupt, their friends and hangers on, are corrupt, their friends and hangers on, are the only people that benefit from the towns wealth.

  - iii) Infallibility – incapable of doing something wrong
  - iv) Reluctant -not willing
  - v) That goes without saying – it is understood without being stated.
  - vi) Reproach – find fault
  - vii) Hovstad says that his responsibility is to emancipate the masses through saying the truth and exposing the corrupt officials but he does none of that.

This is because he is convinced by Peter Stockman that the report would mean closing the Baths for two years and incurring forty thousand pounds to do any repairs. Consequently, he betrays the doctor and does not use his paper to say the truth.

22. a)

- Kinuthia warns Waiyaki that the kiama led by Kabonyi are spreading rumours that he was no longer a leader and are plotting to harm Nyambura.
- Waiyaki and Nyambura both go to Waiyaki's hut and are seen by a hiding Kamau.
- Waiyaki and Nyambura both go to Waiyaki resolves to go to the site of the sacred grove and implores Kinuthia to call for a meeting at Honia.

  - He is a patriot because
  - He discovers the water at the Baths is contaminate.
  - He single-handedly came up with the idea of the Baths.
  - He discovers the water at the Baths is contaminated
  - He carries out a test to confirm this.
  - He solely fights to ensure the authorities support it, though they betray his Efforts
  - He is ready to lose his job and the source of income for his family while fighting for his report.
- d) Mr. Vik is a wealthy man
  - He should be independent of everyone and everything.
  - He is not independent as he allows himself to do what other people want him to do by dismissing Captain Horster because that is what the majority want.
- e)
  - i) Their minds will be changed some day. (ii) She asked (him) whether he meant that he had been dismissed.
- f)
  - i) Petra – Concerned – she is concerned about the dismissal of Horster. She asks you too!...
  - ii) Captain Horster- Optimistic – is sure to get a job
  - iii) Mrs. Stockmann – Supportive-towards the husband she tells him, “Yes, Thomas, as sure as you are standing here.”

24. a) Before
- Dr. Stockmann has sent his manuscript to Peter Stockman.
  - Peter Stockmann has replied that he would come at the Stockmann's at midday.
  - Katherine reminds the Doctor to avail himself so as to see Peter.
  - Hovstad checks in at the Stockmanns as Morten leaves.
  - Hovstad reminds the Doctor of the corruption at the council
- b) And not he
- c) i) Peter Stockmann p insecure-peter hates the idea of someone doing any service to the town except himself. He fears somebody may get popular than he.
- ii) Peaceable/reconciliatory-he wants the husband to share the credit with the mayor to avoid any bad blood between the two
- iii) Vengeful - he wants the officials at the council to suffer for hounding him out of the council
- d) To him it isn't something serious. Its like a game. He thinks the discovery is a lie to deceive Peter Stockmann. He views it as a good chance for him to avenge being hounded out of the council.
- e) i) Queer tale – strange story
- ii) Looked in on –visited
- iii) Pull your own brothers leg-deceive your brother
- iv) Bait – something that can temp

- v) Charity-help to the poor
- f) According to Dr. Stockmann, it is luck for the town as the town can eliminate contamination in the water at the Baths and this would mean more visitors which will translate to more money. According to Peter Stockmann it could be said to be an ironical statement because to him it's no luck but exposure of his inefficiencies. This may lead to his being viewed as inefficient should people know how he laid the pipes at the wrong position resulting to contamination.
- g)
  - i) You will their legs! Won't you?
  - ii) I will give ten pounds to charity on the spot Won't I?
- 25. a) Peter Stockmann has come to see his brother, Doctor Stockmann, in order to know more about the report the Doctor had sent him concerning the Baths. Earlier, the Doctor had reported to his family that he has the free press also the compact majority on his side.
- b)
  - To build a sewer to carry impurities
  - To relay the water conduits
- c) Points
  - It will be an expensive undertaking
  - The work would take long-two years
  - Closing the Baths
  - They would lose business

-They would win the town

- d) Metaphor – Slow poison- the water is contaminated therefore people consume water that can ruin their life. Irony – Peter Stockmann says that he guard his reputation anxiously for the good of the town- There may be no good of the town when he refuses to end contamination of the water or corruption in the town.
  - e) No. it is compromised by Peter Stockmann; it does not meet its expectations when it allows itself to be manipulated by peter who convinces the press of the expenses of adopting the report. They later disown the Doctors report.
  - f) He is branded an enemy of the people His windows are shattered, his daughter Petra is dismissed from work. The boys are expelled from school He' s dismissed from his position as the medical officer to the Baths. He cannot continue in his practice in town –no one can consult him. His best friend Captain Horster is dismissed from service. He's no longer comfortable in his native town and wants to leave to the new world.
  - h) He promises to consider the report sometime but doesn't give a guarantee of doing it. He says," ... We might perhaps have to consider sometime later on."
26. a) Peter Stockmanns had come calling at the Doctor's. He demands that the doctors withdraws his report failure to which he would be dismissed from the Baths.

He means that Peter Stockmann threatens him with a dismissal to make him fearful

He also says that Peter wants the Doctor to put his personal interest (to consider his job and family) above what he feels is the truth; to save the council from using contaminated water and to end corruption

- b) Metaphor- People's messenger being the Doctor's arsenal- meaning the weapon to use to attack the authorities.

Don't spare the dynamite- means that the article will reveal corruption in the council.

Simile- bombard them... Like bombshells-means he will use the articles to expose the failure of the officials of the council.

- c)
  - i) Minds eye-conscious
  - ii) Outposts-towns
  - iii) Vistas-new ideas
  - iv) Predecessor- the former; came before
- d) Billing is very supportive of the Doctor in this episode but later he betrays him when he refers to him as an enemy of the people after being swayed by Peter Stockmann.

e) Fearful- he doesn't want his colleagues to be involved in any matter of the local authorities apart from the Baths because he says he has had Some experience.

He admits he is timid as long as issues concerning local authorities are addressed. Selfish

-He admits he has solid interests of his own to protect and therefore he says he cannot think of everything.

f) Aslaksen Warns Billing to learn a lesson or two about politics. He implies that once in a while a politician could be selfish and only do things that favour him. He makes reference to Stensgaard who was an authority to the county and who left the position to serve his own interests somewhere else. Aslaksen warns Billing that he could take that as a lesson in his Endeavour to become the secretary of the council and tells him that he should not be too sure of everything.

ANSWERS

OPTIONAL SET TEXTS

(a)

- Define tradition
- An established custom or practice
- Practitioners may claim that the custom has divine authority
- Traditions are usually influenced by and or subscribe to religious beliefs,

(ii)

- The society expects women to have higher moral standards than men
- N'damba and her sister are expected to uphold the family name.
- When Nkodo Shaifu gets children out of wedlock Baba is not offended. In fact, he is happy he has grandchildren but his daughter Ajara nearly dies procuring an abortion because she does not want to dishonour the family.
- Women are denied freedom of movement.
- N'damba and her sisters have to be accompanied by their younger brothers when they go out of the home. N'damba's father does not allow her to move into the house that the hospital has provided for her. Traditions require that unmarried women be under the custody of their fathers while married women be under the custody of their husbands. At no time are they expected to be on their own, minding their own business!

- The society denies women freedom of association and choice. N'damba cannot have a boyfriend. Her brother even reads her letters. Women cannot even choose their own husbands. N'damba, for example, is being forced to marry Alhaji Hamsu's son, as a third wife!
- As far as traditions are concerned, "girls should get married and have children" The society believes that women do not know what is good for them.

(iii)

- The traditions allow men to harass women and molest them physically, even better them.
- Uncle Bardara beats his wives for very flimsy reasons.
- Alhaji Hamsu's son beats his wives and children with efficient brutality.
- Baba forces mama to grow fat because he loves fat women, although it is unhealthy to be overweight.
- Yaano's ordeal; she is called a witch

(iv)

- Women are not free to wear what they like.
- N'damba cannot wear her trousers.
- Her sisters admire her clothes but they cannot wear them.

- (v) Society restricts women's access to formal education; medicine is seen as a field dominated by men.

Conclusion

- Traditions are used to a large extent to oppress women (accept any other valid conclusion)

(b) Introduction

- The introduction should show awareness of the two reactions to a civil war: those who flee and those who stay on.
  - (i) Those who flee their country suffer a lot because they get alienated from those they love. In the same way, those who stay on are alienated from those who flee. As Odie says, "BROTHER a nice and endearing family word full of warmth.....and shreds of tenderness.....But guerrilla guns have put holes into it" (pg 140)
  - (ii) Civil war brings fear and uncertainty to both those who flee and those who remain. When Wak gets back, he is afraid; he has to take Vodka to steady his nerves, and when he knocks at the door, his brother Odie is "shocked and petrified" (pg 77). There is fear and suspicion, (pg 80-81)
There is perpetual fear of one losing one's job.
  - (iii) Civil war brings about mental/ emotional torture to both groups. Those who remain are tortured by the constant shooting and killing: those who flee are Tortured by the risks in the paths of escape, (pgs 28, 116, 80-81, 103, 107, 13)

As Stella puts it, the refugee on his path of escape crosses the river with "croc~ in tf~ river and guards at the bank. Guns at the ready" (pg 86).

There is also the barbarism refugees suffer in a foreign country, (pg 93)

(iv) Both the 'stayees' and the 'returnees' suffer from the breakdown of social structures, which lead to escalation of crime and social evils. In the home country this is a direct result of the civil war; in the country of refuge as a result of the influx of refugees, (pg 33, 105)

- Lack of food
- Lawlessness
- Queuing for basic commodities.

(v) Civil war leads to the erosion of social structures and the breakdown of family ties. In Shreds of Tenderness the civil war fuels minor sibling conflict between brothers, and this affects both the one who left and the one who remained, (pgs 118, 55-57, 20-21, 23-24)

Conclusion

The conclusion should round the essay by emphasizing that those who left are not "unforgivable cowards and deserters" (pg 15) as Odie says. They are bold enough to know that they are more useful to their country alive. They suffer in the same way.

(c) Introduction

The introduction should provide a definition of "Domestic Tourism" - local residents visiting tourist attractions within their country. Residents get to know their country and appreciate what their country has to offer. - the scenery, the flora and fauna, the foods and cultures, name it. They thereby contribute to their Economy and help in or appreciate conserving of their national heritage and local means, There are various ways of promoting this form of tourism.

- (i) One way of encouraging domestic tourism is getting people to team up to enjoy Available facilities. There is more fun for groups than for individuals, loners, Charley and Myrtle in Homestretch encourage David and Edith to visit the "Milk River Bath". They enjoy the 'stretch' to the river together (pg 9-1 7). David enjoys it so much that he contrasts it with the inaccessibility of such a facility in England. "A luxurious thing like 'stretching your body and stretching your limbs in some medical water doesn't have a place there (England) pg 16. He concludes "I believe I am going to want to come again" Pg16.
- (ii) Building patriotism- Pride in one's own country is another way of encouraging local tourism. Brenda came to Jamaica to "find her Jamaican self" pg 51. pg 88 Brenda felt one again with Jamaica and when this was accomplished, she was Proud of her country and marketed its facilities abroad through her correspondence (pg 185). The same thing happens to David, Edith and Anthony. They are happy to be back home. Laura encourages Anthony and Brenda to visit the country (pg 131)
- (iii) Publicizing local events that can attract tourist attention. After Brenda writes a feature on "Heritage Week "in Jamaica, there is a change not only in her but also in those "West Indians" who read it. (pg 137, 109, 185, 93, 94)

- (iv) Domestic tourism can also be encouraged by creating networks with locals who are overseas. In Homestretch Brenda organizes trips for young people, "British of Caribbean parents" to enjoy "independence week" in Jamaica. David and Edith become part of the network. pg 114-115.
- (v) Fundraising to sponsor and support domestic tourists can also enhance the Venture. This may be in the form of discounted rates for locals. In Homestretch, Brenda, Laura, and Anthony raise funds to sponsor the youth club to tour Jamaica, (pg 115, 185). The success of this venture is crowned in the shortest Chapter in the book (pg 188) which has given the novel the title Homestretch David and Edith use their pension to encourage domestic tourism (pg 115)
- (vi) Taking time to explore what is available in one's country also creates appreciation and interest in domestic tourism. After her tour of Jamaica with Anthony, Brenda writes back to Laura about the attractions of Jamaica (pg 181). This experience turns Experience turns Anthony into a domestic tourist.

Conclusion

The conclusion should provide a summary of the efforts of encouraging domestic Tourism.

Drama

John Ruganda, Shreds of Tenderness

- The first instance of "play within a play" is the re-enactment of the ordeal refugees faced at the border crossing, (pg 87) walk (a local policeman on the beat) roughens up Stella (a fugitive refugee):

Stella: Sorry Bwana, I did not get you. Sir Wak: .....Are you queer or something? Where are your papers? Your ID, you idiot?
- The play within a play shifts to the immigration office, manned by Odie, a police constable and headed by Wak. (pg 88)

EFFECTIVENESS

- Gives us (readers) background information on the reasons behind the political crisis in the country, i.e. a regime change that forced many to flee.
- Enhancement of theme of social (sexual) immorality; the refugees' privacy and dignity is violated.
  - At the immigration office the constable sniffs on Stella's legs " like a dog on heat"
  - The police officer tells the refugee that they (only policemen) were to search on the lady (refugee). He then asks his colleague whether he is ready for a quickie.

- Theme of violence, and Brutality; the constable kicks the refugee and she howls in pain
- Characterization; the police officer is portrayed as immoral/ promiscuous- he makes sexual advances on Stella (the refugee) Another instance of play within a play is when Stella acts out the part of Othello and Odie, that of Desdemona (pg 50-51)
  - Othello kissed and strangled "his soul's joy" the venation pear Desdemona. He (Othello) was maligned by Lago who convinced him that Desdemona loved Bocatio, Oi.tello's lieutenant;

EFFECTIVENESS

- The theme of violence and brutality is enhanced: Othello kissed and strangled Desdemona.
- Theme of Revenge; Lago got punished, after he maligned and rained Othello's marriage to Desdemona. Othello strangles Desdemona and later kills himself
- Characterization; Lago is portrayed as treacherous, Lago capitalizes on the absolute trust best wed on him by Othello to plot to ruin him by persuading him that Desdemona was unfaithful.
- The final instance of play within a play is where Odie takes up the role of Boss (M.G.Ali) while Stella takes up the role of a subject (pg 43)

EFFECTIVENESS

- Boss is portrayed as murderous since he orders Stella to kill her mother for demanding to know the whereabouts of here.

- He is also brought out as authoritative. He tells Stella; "Doesn't matter whether the entire army or the entire blasted country has joined the enemy or not. Just do what you are told to do."
  - The theme of violence and brutality is enhanced. Stella appeals to Boss to spare her mother's life by saying (pg 44) "Already thousands and thousands have died. We can afford to be magnanimous."

The Novel Velma Pollard. Homestretch

- Laura's father deserts his family and Laura is singly brought up by her mother. When her mother dies, David and Edith take up parental responsibility for Laura's custody, education and other needs like their own child.
- Laura love David and Edith and in return they love her.
- David and Edith feel that those men who feel that a woman without children is mule are ignorant (pg 34)
- Edith has a strong sense of motherliness and is generous.

N.B

Students must clearly give indicators of the relationship between children and their step parents.

2. (a) The short story

Half a day and other stories

- Despite her being pleasant, assertive and apparently happy in her marriage, Mme lady is a victim of domestic violence.
- Her husband Kimanja who is rich seems to love her because he collected her from church and patiently waited for her to finish up her activities in the church where she seemed to have great responsibilities and influence especially among the women.
- Despite Mme ladies confident and happy demeanor; she is distressed and imprisoned in an unhappy marriage she cannot go back to her parents owing to a very high dowry paid for her which they cannot repay.
- She also suffers silently in order to keep her reputation as well as that of her husband intact.
- The church is supposed to offer a sanctuary (safe heaven) of consolation for the many problems women face, but it turns out that the vicar is insensitive to this as his sermons revolve around the need for women to submit to their husband. This aggravated the problems the women faced.

- Divorce or separation were not allowed in Mme lady's society , apparently as a means of maintaining marriages This had the negative effect of making women suffer in the hands of their husbands. The vicar felt that he could not condone her leaving her husband no matter what the circumstances.
- It is ironical that the women hold Mme lady in very high esteem which she enjoys. Her patronizing nature makes the women depend on her for advice, help and leadership. They felt they could do nothing without her. The truth is that she is very vulnerable beneath the reassured demeanor.
- Even though Kim seems to adore his wife, it is just a facade meant to hoodwink people. It is just a show off.
- He does not allow his wife to go anywhere, least of all the church without supervision. He also beats her.
- Mme ladies apparent arrogance and show off behaviour is a defence mechanism as she tries to assert herself in the society without the timidity which is typical of women in her society. For instance she comes to church late and makes distractions to the congregation in actual sense she is kind, generous and sociable. For instance on Sundays after church she welcomes people to her house, even the vicar whom she doesn't like.

(b) Drama Shreds of tenderness

Introduction

Reference should be made to the untold suffering and loss of human life in addition to wanton destruction of property as a result of coups d'etat.

Mention should be made to the illegality of coups d'etat since they involve violent removal from office of legally and constitutionally elected governments. Examples of countries that have experienced them can be given such as Nigeria, the Comoros Island and Uganda where the play is based on during the murderous regime of Idi Amin.

1. Violence

- Papa was slain by the regime.
- Odie was brutalized by soldiers and he broke his skull.
- A platoon drunk and lascivious raided Stella's school one month to exam time and plundered on the school and left behind a piteous wreckage and ruins and school girls whispering for life.

2. Fear

- A state of fear and insecurity is evident in the general population. An explosion from outside makes Mr No fear - no favour duck underneath the table with wet pants. He locks himself in a toilet from where Wak will pick him with a friend.
- People become fugitives. For example the SRB come looking for Wak to kill him. He is almost killed by the soldiers at the boarder.

3. Education

Semi - illiterate personnel take over governments lectures run away for safety, thus resulting in brain drain.

4. Economy

- The economy is ruined and property destroyed.
- Basic commodities become scarce and citizens have to queue for long hours.
- There is inflation and lack of basic amenities e.g. Good sanitation.
- Economic growth is retarded as investors run away for safety.
- Property is grabbed by greedy people who take advantage of absentees.

5. influx of refugees

Few people escaped when soldiers on guard were taking a nap at night and managed to escape crocodiles while swimming across a river even though they carried a stench from miles dazed.

(c) The Novel

Velma Pollard, Homestretch

- Edith and David reveal a strong marital love that strengthens and is supportive. Despite the difficulties of England they come back home still caring for each other. Their deep love sees them through hard times, keeps them happy and makes them productive members of the community.

- Their love transcends the traumas of immigration, David's sickness and lack of children.
- Upon their return to Jamaica from England, Edith and David receive a warm welcome from their niece, Laura and their former friends, Charley and his wife Myrtle.
- The support of Laura and their friends help the returnee family to settle quickly and David's tiredness and sickness abates. They resettle in their old village, woods, and are soon re-integrated into it, becoming an asset as they revive and start community projects to improve life in the village.
- Friendship and love on the part of Anthony and Laura enable Brenda to re-settle and heal at home after tumultuous experience in England. Laura opens her eyes to the possibilities of home: Its beauty, its remarkable history, and its rich heritage. Anthony on the other hand takes her on a tour of Jamaica and interesting and entertaining places around Kingston.
- Patriotism or love for one's country is important knowledge and appreciation of one's country historically, geographically and culturally makes progressive. Laura and Anthony love their country passionately. Anthony is portrayed as a modern liberated man who is proud of his race and identity. His positive impacts heavily on Brenda, Laura knows and loves Jamaica, she helps Brenda to discover it and love it too.

PAST KCSE QUESTION ON OPTIONAL SET TEXTS

(a) The short story.

Half a day and other stories.

1. Introduction (2mks)

- In the introduction, prison conditions should be talked about in general.
- An attempt should be made to define the term "dehumanizing" (2mks)

2. Body (12 mks)

- In Nawal's story: "solitude", the inmates are deprived of privacy. For example they are forced to relieve themselves in the full view of everybody. This is humiliating.
- They are also deprived of silence and solitude. For instance; the author is denied the solitude he craves for by the constant quarrelling between Boduur and her colleagues or by the recitation of the Qur'an by the same Boduur. Fawqiyya's discussions do not help the situation either.
- The inmates are not allowed to develop their talents. The author has to write under very uncomfortable and secretive conditions. She sits on an upside down Jerry can next to the toilet when everybody is asleep. For paper, she is forced to use a tape-like toilet roll which she places on an aluminium plate.
- They are also denied the opportunity to communicate with their loved ones, no matter how harmless the communication is. Against prison regulations, an inmate is subjected to a body search, and when an innocent letter to her family is found, the prison authorities become very angry. They claim that somebody illegally possesses a paper and pen in the cell.

- This leads to an attack on all the inmates during which their personal belongings and bedding are searched. Worse still, they are stripped off their higaabs, nigaabs and cloaks. This is an affront on their dignity and decency as Muslim women.
- Any form of protest, justified it may be, is met with brutality. During the search, the hair of one of the Munaqqabas is uncovered in front of male prison administrators. This is an abomination to a Muslim woman. When she protests, she is thrown into the disciplinary cell and beaten thoroughly.
- She is gravely injured on sensitive parts such as her head, neck and spine. Out of malice, her tormentors even crash her glasses, rendering her practically slightness. Indeed Fawqiyya states that protesting in anyway will only invite more repression.

3. Grammar and Presentation (2 Mks)

4. Conclusion (2 Mks)

The prison conditions outlined in this story are illustrative of conditions in prisons in most of the developing world. Whatever gains may have been made in some countries have not invalidated this presentation, in fact, in male prisons and remand homes, apart from the brutality visited on inmates by prison warders, fellow inmates molest and even sodomize other, especially new inmates, (give a summary of the main aspects raised)

(b) Drama

John Ruganda, Shreds of Tenderness

1. Introduction

Jealousy occurs when;

- Parents show open favouritism towards some of their children, and when those who are not favoured know it.
- There is conflict between step-children caused by the realization that they belong to different mothers / fathers.
- One child does better than others in school and especially when the parents declare some of their children as heirs to the exclusion of others.

2. Body (12 mks)

- Odie in John Ruganda's Shreds of Tenderness harps on the fact that Wak, whom he hates, is only a step-brother, and that they were born of different mothers (Pgs 12, 13, 15, 23, 31, 60, 57-8, 35-48-9)
- Odie dislikes Wak because, according to him the latter was their father's favourite (pg 30, 65, 120)
- Stella their sister is left out of all these arrangements, and although she is not portrayed as being jealous, under different circumstances she could have been. John Ruganda's play is silent on the issue of women's inheritance of their father's properties) pg 20, 73

- Odie is jealous of Wak because of the relative comfort they lived in exile as refugees and what settlement they are entitled to in order to return home. (Pg. 12, 15, 73, 76, 83 - 4)

(c) The Novel (20 Mks)

Velma Pollard – Homestretch

1. Introduction (2 Mks)

- An overview on developing countries and the problem of migration as caused by:
  - Poverty
  - Poor infrastructure e.g. bad roads and lack of electricity.
  - Unemployment leading to a search for jobs in developed countries.
  - Under employment and poor remuneration in developing countries.
  - Search for educational opportunities
  - Examples from Kenya - migration to the US, the UK, and other European countries. (2 mks)

- Pollard's novel, homestretch is about Jamaicans migrating to the UK and the US and coming back.

(i) Poverty

- Jamaica itself is depicted as a poor, developing country, with bad roads and generally a poor infrastructure. It exports bananas to the developed countries, but this industry is under threat because of the competition from Latin America. Besides, the banana industry is now monopolized by the rich; the small - scale farmer has been squeezed out (P 18, 21 - 22, 39, 150 - 157)

(ii) Employment

- Uncle David and his wife Edith migrated to the UK and lived and worked there for 30 years -David doing menial jobs and Edith working as a nurse (P 6, 28 - 29)

(iii) Exploitation / overwork

- When the novel opens, the two have just returned to Jamaica, David is in a wheel -chair, having suffered a stroke in the UK (P 6 - 8, 28 - 29, 32)

(iv) Loneliness and Racial Discrimination

- The two are happy to be back after 30 years of loneliness and racial discrimination in the UK. (P 31; 32 - 33) Others come back mad (P. 20)

(v) Education

- For her part, Brenda goes to New York to live with her father and to get a supposedly better education. But in the US, she is subjected to a culturally biased curriculum and although she is basically bright, she does not do so well in junior high (P 55, 66, 69, 73, 89, 177 - 78)

(vi) Good life

- Many people wanted to go to the USA as it promised good life for migrants. The author says, everybody wanted to go to the states (P. 55 - 56)

Effects

(6 mks)

(i) Exploitation / overwork

When the novel opens, the two have just returned to Jamaica. David is in a wheel - chair, having suffered a stroke in the UK, others die because of being overworked to the point of death (Pg. 6-8, 28 - 29; 32)

(ii) Loneliness and Racial discrimination

The two are happy to be back after 30 years of loneliness and racial discrimination in the UK, (Pg. 31; 32 - 33) others come home dead (Pg. 20) -Avis, Mrs. Beth's daughter and Mrs. Gerald's son.

(iii) Culturally Biased Curriculum

Although the blacks go out for education, they are subjected to a culturally biased curriculum. In the US, Brenda is subjected to a culturally biased curriculum and although she is basically bright, she does not do so well in junior high. (Pg 58 - 62) Diagnostic and placement tests.

(iv) Discrimination in UK

Brenda follows her father to the UK and encounters another brand of racism. British racism is depicted as being more covert. As for fellow Jamaicans, they resent her because she speaks with an American accent (Pg. 75 - 77; 88 - 89; 137)

(v) Discrimination at Home

As a result of these experiences, Brenda has been radicalized to the extent of being bitter and hypercritical, even towards her homeland Jamaica. She suffers intensely from a feeling of rejection (Pg. 51 - 54; 88 - 89)

(vi) Sense of Solidarity

Because of racism, migrants from the black world develop a sense of pan Africanism. In the novel, Brenda falls in love with Milton, a Nigerian student in Britain. Their passionate and enduring love creates the African connection in the Black Diaspora (Pg. 102 - 106; 114; 1 59) Any 2 effects, 3 mks each

Conclusion

Any appropriate conclusion (2mks)

Grammar and presentation (4mks)

HALF A DAY AND OTHER STORIES

1. What are the features that enable the writer to reveal the miseries in John's life in the story, "Meeting in the Dark" by Ngugi wa Thiongo. (20 marks)
2. Female genital mutilation (FGM) goes against the principle of pleasure. Using Saida Hagi-Dirie Herzi's story, "Against the pleasure principle/" explain why FGM should never be carried out on women. (20 marks)
3. "Society places great expectations on women," with reference to Wangui wa Goro's Heaven and Earth", write a composition in support of this observation. (20 marks)
4. Imagine you are John and you have planned to meet Wamuhu later in the evening to persuade her not to reveal her pregnancy to her parents. Basing your answer on Ngugi wa Thiongo's "A meeting in the dark/" write a composition on what you would do to ensure that this remains a secret until you leave for college.

ANSWERS:

HALF A DAY AND OTHER STORIES

1. (i) Internal Monologue
  - Fear for the father e.g. "I John a priest's son respected by all ..... will fall to the ground. Pg 44. - Why does he torture me?"
  - Thoughts - e.g. contemplates to marry or not e.g. why not marry her? She is beautiful. Pg 45.

- Expresses his feelings - confusion and hatred - for Wamuhu pg. 31. I hate you I hate you. You trapped me” .....

- He reveals his desperate nature e.g. why don't you marry her?

(ii) Dialogue

Between father and son

- Fear created by father to the son.

- Intimidated to the point of becoming miserable.

- Forced into things he doesn't want hence getting confused and feels alienated.

Between John's father and mother

- Reveals their past and the fact that John was conceived out of wedlock before conversion to Christianity. This leads to the harsh treatment the boy gets as the father tries to rub out the fact.

Between John and Wamuhu .

- He is unable to make the final decision. As he tries to postpone solving the problem, it keeps eating into him causing him more misery.

(iii) Dream

- This is a premonition

- The boy has been brought up using an alien culture: he is also inclined to the tribal ways of life. This denies him identity and he is torn into nothing.

(iv) Flash back

- Reveals John's internal conflict e.g. does he know?

- Reveals his confused status.

- Reveals his desperate situation - "why do you ask me?"
  - Self pity (pg 41) what right have you to know where I was?
  - His lack of self confidence- "Would he have gladly changed places with them?"
- (v) Suspense
- It is persistently maintained.
  - The parents have been kept away from the truth. This keeps John in constant fear of what will happen when they learn of Wamuhu's condition e.g. "why does he not at once say he knows?"
2. Female genital mutilation (FGM) should not be carried out on women because;
- It violates the right of women - once done without their consent e.g. Rahma hated the act done on her when she was only four years -she says none of her daughters will be circumcised.
  - It's painful - parts of female genital are cut without anaesthesia - Rahma screams and then passes out. She remains unconscious for sometime. She experiences pain when passing urine. Rahma is stitched with a thorn.
  - Its humiliation/ridicule - one gets ridicule by societies that do not practice it e.g. Hawa -in the US - is asked and bothered with questions e.g. whether it was an operation for cancer or something.....
  - Difficult childbirth:- Rahma's mother worries if doctors are experienced enough to handle circumcised women. To her mother, that would mean trouble for her when she was going to have a baby.

- FGM denies women pleasure during the sexual performance. The title "Against the pleasure principle."

- 3.
  - With regard to dress, the vicar says: women shall adorn themselves for their husbands." (Meaning that there are standards to please their husbands)

  - In the church, women are expected to hide beauty under their head scarves. Mme lady is tempted to knock off one of the women's heads and expose the beauty. The pastor preaches that men and women in the community have different roles as designed by God and that we were men's helpers, to obey and be humble as "designated by their biology".

  - During church functions, the women were expected to volunteer their services to ensure success. The women appear "lost and aimless" without Mme lady when she does not appear to lead them and bring the Napkin and cutlery.

  - The Vicar's sermons are biased against women especially when he says men have sustained their homes and are a blessing, yet Mme lady thinks it is not that simple since they undergo a lot of suffering which they tolerate silently. They cannot speak out especially about domestic violence. Women are not expected to draw attention to themselves as Mme lady does when she enters the Church late to the seats in front and appears to bask in her importance among the women. She loves "the feeling of being useful, valued and wanted," yet this creates conflict with the Vicar thinking she is creating another centre of power attraction in his church.

- Wives like Mme lady are expected to cook for their husbands. In fact, even the pleasant women think that men cannot cook and hence provide the Pastor with meals. Women are expected to bear children once married and hence Mme lady feels she has contributed to her husband's frustrations when he beats her up.
- Again society would judge a woman harshly and cannot allow women to go back to their father's house since dowry is paid. Mme lady feels that "they would blame me. They think I'm spoilt and that is my fault."
- The women turn to the church to escape Their problems and it cannot offer solutions since the Vicar is not living in the real world. Mme lady tells him that he has never been married and does not know what it is like for women. It is only when he encounters Kim beating Mme lady outside the church that he awakens to the reality of domestic violence.

4. Points to Consider

- Ensure that Wamuhu does not let out her secret until you have worked out a solution together.
- Convince her to remain evasive to her parent's inquiries.
- Offer her tangible solutions in the face of demands that she must explain who impregnated her.
- Promise to marry her as soon as you complete your studies.

- Promise to support her bring up the child now that she will be a single, unmarried woman.
- Find a way of letting your parents know about the pregnancy and convincing them it was an accident.

NB

Allocation of marks is based on how tangible, realistic and convincing the points advanced are.

1. Shreds of Tenderness

John Ruganda: Shreds of Tenderness describe the problems faced by refugees in the play.

2. Shreds of tenderness

Wak is more of a patriot than Odie despite the fact that he went on exile. Discuss this observation in the view of the conduct of the two brothers.

3. Shreds of Tenderness

"Without Stella, Wak and Odie would kill each other." Citing examples from the play, support the above statement.

4. Shreds of tenderness

(a) How successful is the playwright in using play within a play?

(b) "Military coups have done a lot of harm in African countries." Discuss.

5. Using the experiences of the characters in the novel, Homestretch, write an essay on the effects of studying in a foreign country.

6. Using the character of Brenda in Homestretch, write a composition to show how early life experiences influences a person's view of reality.

7. Using the characters of David and Edith in Velma Pollard's Homestretch, write a composition to illustrate the truth of the statement, "One is never too old for community service."

ANSWERS

1. Shreds of Tenderness.

Problems faced by Refugees

- (a) A refugee's escape into the host country is dangerous/torturous e.g.
- He has to wait till the heavily armed guards collapse with drink before he can risk crossing the border. He goes without bathing for even a month.
- (b) - Refugees live in abject poverty/inhuman conditions in a host country e.g. congested tents/tattered shacks – the only accommodation offered by UNHCR.
- They have to do with inadequate food offered by reluctant donors.
  - There is lack of water for bathing, only for drinking hence there is overpowering stench and sweat.
- (c) - Harassment by security agents/Immigration officials/spies from refugees' countries.
- They hound refugees with guns to catch or kill him.
  - Female refugees are sexually harassed if they lack proper identification papers on mere suspicion, by being subjected to a bodily search by male officers who demand sexual bribes.
  - They are abused by the officers e.g. "you idiot....."
- (d) - Harassed/humiliated/abused/degraded shown open hostility by host citizens.
- Women refugees are harassed (sexually) e.g. "if you are a woman, every blinking idiot wants to paw you."

- In working places, the refugees, dignity is lowered e.g. shouted at, not appreciated and constantly reminded that one is an alien, associated with cheap labour, hunger and deprivation.
  - If a refugee is employed, one always lives in perpetual fear of losing one's job.
  - In social places e.g. bars, one is isolated often ordered to go home.
- (e) Sabotage/plundering the economy by siphoning maize, coffee and tea out of the country.
- They are accused of spreading venereal diseases and robbing banks in broad daylight, murders, forgeries, impersonation, hoarding and smuggling.
- f) The refugee is lonely and uncertain.
- In social places, the refugee sips his drink alone quietly.
  - He is uncertain where to sleep, eat or what fate has for him and family.
  - Often contemplates suicide.
- a) Back home, the returnee (former refugee) is treated with suspicion and open hostility.
- b) The refugee is blamed for all manner of ills affecting the host country. Odie suspects Wak to have returned in order to inherit the family property e.g. the family house, the Nile Apartments and the family land. When Wak accuses Odie of this, Odie doesn't openly deny it.
2. Wak is more of a patriot than Odie despite the fact that he went on exile.

Wak is patriotic because:

- Came back to his country as desecrated and dilapidated as it was.
- Is now ready to safeguard citizens' rights to stay in their own country.
- He had actually been forced to go to exile-learned that police were looking for him.
- He really missed his country while he was in exile.

Odie is unpatriotic because:

- He betrayed his own father to the securities of illegal government.
- He betrayed his own brother to the same security forces.
- He faked the death of his own brother to inherit his wealth.
- He passively lived under unconstitutional government.
- He turned against those who would have liberated the county.

3. Without Stella, Wak and Odie would kill each other.

- Stella stops Odie from concentrating on his experiment on ants which he started when his half brother Wak came from exile.
- She insists they are brothers; it's only that they have a different mother.
- She welcomed Wak home.
- She separates them when they go for each other violently.
- She suggests for a drink so that they wipe out their memory and settle.

4. (a) How successful is the playwright in using play within a play?

- i) Odie and Stella slide into, subject leader roles.

- Odie talks to a senior officer on phone.
  - Odie acts as a constable and Wak as his boss, Stella acts as a refugee.
  - ii) It develops characters
    - Odie is dictatorial, cruel, and authoritative.
    - Police (Odie) is cruel and immoral same as Wak as boss.
    - Stella as a refugee is abusive. She calls Wak and Odie as sniffing like a dog on heat.
  - iii) Develops themes.
    - The theme of betrayal, when Odie calls a senior government officer giving information about Wak lecture on democracy. The themes of immorality and dictatorship.
  - iv) Develops style
    - Odie as an informer says how Wak gives a lecture about Boss (leader) selling staple food to South Africa, has built a skyscraper and carries out slave trade. This is irony.
    - There's allegory - characters represent virtues and vice e.g. cowardice (Wak) peace making (Stella).
4. (b) Military coups have done a lot of harm in African countries/'
- (i) Refugees Crisis
- People like Wak run away from their home country to seek asylum in a neighbouring country.

- The process of seeking or becoming a refugee is dehumanizing e.g. flashback at the entry point between a run away woman and the askaris.
  - Refugees become a liability to the host country when they compete for limited resources like food, women and job opportunities making the citizens bitter.
  - Refugees may not get any way of contributing to the country's development for lack of work permit and hence they are wasted resources. International aid that could be used to better people's living standards is used on them.
- (ii) Bloodshed/human suffering/torture/insecurity.
- Coups may involve killings, murder etc like Wak's father.
  - Torture victims are many e.g. Odie's scar.....
  - Citizens are subjected to inhuman treatment e.g. many crippled, left homeless etc.
  - People fear and cannot walk freely. They escape to be refugees.
- (iii) Family break-ups/Rivalry
- Refugees have to leave wives and children as seen in the incident in the bar between Stella and Wak.
  - Wak runs away leaving Stella, a sister he was close to.
  - His father died and he never was present for the funeral.
  - Brothers and relatives take advantage of those away to disinherit them by declaring them dead e.g. Odie did this to Wak.

- Odie develops hatred for his brother, Wak, calling him a coward. He even wanted to kill him. This creates sibling-rivalry.

(iv) Ruin economy/destruction of property,

- After the coup, citizens queue for scarce basic needs for long hours.
- There is inflation.
- Investors and able men run for safety and this slows economic growth.
- Greedy men take advantage to grab property of absentees through forgery of ownership documents; individuals lose their wealth e.g. Odie .... Wak
- Jobs are lost, man power and skilled labour become refugees in neighbouring countries.

(v) Violation of human rights.

- Women are raped and children defiled by soldiers and those in power.
- Freedom of movement is denied by curfews e.g. Wak has to beat time home....
- No freedom of speech.
- Censorship.

(vi) Psychological illness/anguish

- The excess of the regime get into the people's nerves e.g. Wak is mad at the acts of his brother Odie to betray and insult him.
- Stella is made to agree with Odie's obsession for security/survival. Hence she goes through mental anguish.
- Odie is mentally sick and has a crazy obsession. He has been to a mental hospital.

- Refugee and the host citizens are stressing each other to breaking points e.g. the drunk who insults foreigners and screams to order them to leave.

(vii) Ruins democracy/Bad leadership.

- They suspend a democratic society and democracy.
- Leaders are not elected: there is dictatorship e.g. the struggle between Wak and Odie.
- It gets into people's way of life e.g. soldiers everywhere, presence of guns and they interrupt the continuity of normalcy.

(viii) Guerilla Warfare/Armed conflict.

- There arises rebellion/rebels to fight the government e.g. the one which Wak joins.
- Children are enrolled into this
- They bring presence of foreigners e.g. peace-keeping who exploit the situation.
- Counter coups may occur.

(ix) Education/learning institutions are ruined.

- Lecturers run away for safety e.g. Wak denying the country a service. -----
- There is brain drain e.g. Wak.
- Semi-literate persons take over and cripple an effort towards intellectual pursuit due for fear..... Odie's hatred for the brother.
- Students enroll in Guerilla warfare instead of schooling.

5. Effect of studying in a foreign country.

- A learner should show awareness of the characters.

- Discuss the character's experiences while studying abroad, particularly Brenda.

Effects

- Isolation from home
- Discrimination in the foreign country.
- Loss of confidence in one's background.
- Undue influence by foreign values.
- Alienation.

6. Early life experiences and how they influence a person's view of reality.

- When we first meet Brenda in the novel, she is having a confrontation with customs officials at the airport and she is quite negative towards the officials. A lot of this can be explained when we look at her earlier life.
- Brenda moved to the US in her teens to live with a father she barely knew. She suffered harassment from Johnnie and her daughter at home, and she found a lot of trouble adjusting at school.
- She relocates to England and she has to readjust to another of her father's 'women' and to high school in a third country. 'She had no control over her life. She was tense at the thought of another adjustment to a different home and a different school.'
- She suffers prejudice at college because of being black and speaking in an American accent. She was shy and insecure but she appeared proud to the Jamaicans because of her accent.

- She tries to be different and gangs up with the Africans but she gets disappointed by her Nigerian boyfriend.
  - At the end of it Brenda didn't have even one positive word to say about England.
  - When we first meet her, her frustrations come out in form of anger, confrontation and unrealistic ideals. She is unhappy with the customs officer, with the drivers on the roads, and with the environment.
- 7.
- Edith and David return to Jamaica after thirty years in England, old tired and in need of nursing, particularly David. At their old age and after such a long absence, it would be expected that they would hire a local nurse to take care of them, but the two of them bring life and hope to their neighbourhood.
  - They bring excitement in the lives of Charley and Myrtle. They are made to appreciate being Jamaicans in Jamaica. 'England was made for work when it comes to black people.... A luxurious thing like stretching your body and stretching your limbs..... Doesn't have any place there.
  - David and Edith are in the forefront in the renovation of the church; Edith is the secretary of the committee.
  - They appeal to the ministry of education and to the university for assistance for Woods Basic School.
  - Edith begins a feeding program for the pupils of Woods School.

- David helps repair the school furniture and in the process becomes the woodwork teacher in the school.
- Edith gives home classes on house-keeping to the girls from woods school.
- She returns warmth to the church by training the girls to decorate ('dress') it.
- Their work in the community is part of what encourages Brenda to take interest in helping others.

Thus, in spite of their age, David and Edith bring a great change to their community.

ENGLISH PAPER 2

MODEL PAPER 1

1. Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow

Over the years man has cultivated to exhaustion the better soils in the plains. This has led to progressive destruction of land to the point where some of the steeper hills slopes are cultivated so that widespread erosion has been initiated. Meanwhile, the livestock are continuously being forced on to smaller areas of poorer land and further up the hill slopes where they have to compare with foresters. As a result the quantities of animals proteins, so necessary to human health, have steadily declined. Surprisingly, instead of accepting the responsibility for all his destruction, man blames livestock and in particular the goat.

Man has repeatedly failed to do anything to restore the fertility of the soils he has ravaged. After the last miserable crop has been harvested the land has been left to weeds. No attempts has been made to plant grass or to under plant the last agricultural crop with fodder species. Had this been done rehabilitation would have been quicker and sure and erosion would have been reduced. Thus the gradually worsening situation would be arrested.

If man would shoulder the responsibility for his own greedy misuse of the land, the goat could easily carry the blame for its own much smaller share in this degradation. Unfortunately, because human nature is what it is, man will find something to blame for his own carelessness. The goat has been chosen to carry this blame largely because it is the last animal to be seen wrestling a precarious living from the areas where man has done his worst and from which cattle and sheep have long since been forced to move.

Conservation of land depends on proper planning. Livestock numbers therefore, irrespective of species, should be strictly limited to a density which will permit pasture renewal instead of causing its degeneration. This adjustment of numbers should help man to have a balanced mixture of livestock.

Many writers in recent years have tried to show that there has been considerable improvement in mountain grazing areas after the banishment of the goat. Most, however, fail to indicate to what extent this has been due solely to the removal of the goat or to a reduction in other livestock densities or other measures such as erosion control, terracing the building of gabions and grass plan planting. It is essential to ensure that results which are obtained in one environment are not automatically applied to a different one.

Questions

MODEL PAPER 2

1. Read the passage below and then answer the questions that follow. In all cases keep to the information in the passage.

On a Friday morning, Jonah was summoned to the head teacher's office. As he climbed the ink stained stairs, he had grave misgivings because he knew the head teacher was the sort of person described as long suffering; this meant that instead of having a boy flexed edgewise over a table and giving him a dozen strokes, he/ she vented displeasure by the liberal dispensing of moral tonic. These either took the form of the boy finding himself at the bottom of his class for the term or his parent receiving a stern reminder that the boy could not expect a helpful testimonial by which to procure his future advancement, when it would be the school's pleasure to shed him it would at large. Jonah had recently found himself in the head teacher's bad books.

Jonah knocked feebly at the door of the head teacher's office and waited. No answer; not even the shuffling on papers from inside, but he knew that no-one ever entered the office without knocking at least twice, so he knocked again, more firmly.

'Come in and close the door. Keep the draught out', the head teacher said. Jonah moved nimbly into the office shutting the door behind him, his knees shaking involuntarily. The head teacher sat at the desk frowning at some papers and did not look up. The upper lip was screwed up characteristically as if the room was full of bad smells. Jonah moved forward and stood with his hands behind his back expecting the worst. His heart fluttered to a stand still.

'What is it? The head teacher asked at length, pretending absent – mindedness. 'You sent for me, didn't you?

The head teacher looked at Jonah over the half lenses with the persistence of a judge who does not believe the evidence and trust his/ her own dissecting powers to shell out the truth.

‘Ah! Yes; the head teacher said, resting the papers and leaning back in the stomach. The head teacher stared at Jonah for some time, and then appeared to have come to a decision.

‘You know I have a good mind to punish you?’

‘You are perfectly right, Jonah replied before he could stop himself. The head teacher’s eyes tightened.

‘You were very rude to me the other afternoon.’

‘Rude?’

‘Yes rude, you’ve got a good brain, Jonah, but you won’t use it. All these novels you read instead of doing your work won’t get you anywhere. Luckily for you, I know your mother well, I went to school with her, that’s why I’ve been so patient with you,’

Jonah tried to say thank you he could not form the words. Instead he murmured something about the heat.

‘This is not the first hot weather we’ve had in Africa. Anyway, that wasn’t why I sent for you.’

Jonah’s knees buckled with relief as if they had been struck from behind, and he held on momentarily.

(Adapted from the second Round by Lenrie Peters)

- (i) What disciplinary measures did the head teacher use in the school?

- (ii) According to what the head teacher says, what will happen if Jonah continues to read the novels?
- (iii) Why does the head teacher have to ask Jonah what he wants? (2mks)
- (iv) Why does the head teacher mention Jonah's mother in the course of the conversation? (3mks)
- (v) What is the author's attitude towards the head teacher? (4mks)

1. Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow

Your CV and covering letter have worked and you have been listed for all the important job interview. You have your homework on the likely questions that may be asked concerning the company's performance. You are confident that you can answer anything the interviewers may throw at you. Finally the big day arrives and the final choice must be made: What should you wear? How you look at an interview has everything to do with the crucial first impression you make. According to research, a first impression is made in the first 27 seconds of meeting. If you are too formal in your appearance, you might give the impression of being rigid and stuffy. And if you are too casual, you may send the signal that you do not take the interview or the job very seriously.

The right impression is to balance between seriousness and approachability. You can observe employees of your potential new employer and find out what the dress code is and how seriously management takes. If you cannot find out this information, you should choose clothes that are professional in the impression they give, if you do not own clothes that will work for an interview, buy some and get good advice from the sales people, they may have invaluable tips.

While grooming, make sure to look clean and neat. Do your hair appropriately for the prospective job. Women should desist from wild hairdos with multiple colours and men should trim the hair and beard. Do not wear strong perfumes or colognes as this can be overpowering to the panel members.

You will most likely be nervous at the interviews and a scent can mask the perspiring you may be doing. An unscented antiperspirant can be used to cover any tattoos you may have on your body and avoid large and gaudy jewellery. Limit the earrings to one pair. It is fashionable for mainly youthful women to put a row of up to eight earrings on one ear and this may be revolting to the interviewers. Do not under any circumstances wear nose studs to a job interview.

Men can wear suits or jackets and trousers that match in terms of colour coordination. The colours should be neutral or dark. Blue, black or grey are best for men. Wear a neck tie even if you will never wear one after you get the job. And it is good to try the neck tie for a few days ahead of the interview so that you get the feel of it. Shoes should be clean and polished. Avoid the exaggerated and pointed 'pastors' shoes and those wide-soled boat shoes when going for the interview. Black shoes often give the right professional image.

Women come out best in trouser or skirt suits or simple dresses with jackets. A job interview is not the place to dress in a provocative or sexy manner. Some appropriate colours are navy blue, black, dark green, dark red, burgundy or grey.

Both men and women can dress in a higher style to an interview that the prospective job position calls for but they must guard against out-dressing the penalties. Both genders must avoid wearing clothes that are tight, revealing or too trendy. It may be very latest fashion but it will not impress the interviewers who may be conservative people.

Fingernails should be trimmed to a length that does not leave an observer wondering how you keep from stabbing yourself. If you are a woman, the nail polish should be closer to a colour your mother might wear than to a colour that your sister would go for. Even after you are in getting the job, you should continue to pay attention to your wardrobe and grooming for you will be under probation and therefore under the spotlight for sometime. A job interview is only the beginning in the role that clothing will play in your career.

You should regularly add pieces of high quality and longwearing fabrics. It is best to buy separate items that you can mix and match with the pieces that you already own. Each piece you buy adds to the variety of looks you can achieve. The reason is that even after you have the job you are seeking, you might like to be considered for advancement and promotion.

The impression you make at the job everyday will be subconsciously added to your performance when the supervisor or boss looks around for someone to promote or dispatch on work-related assignment and seminars.

- (a) Mention the basic requirements for one to qualify for a job interview (2mks)
- (b) From the passage, which is the most highly recommended colour for men, and why? (2mks)
- (c) Give two reasons why it is important for a fresh employee to continue paying attention to their mode of dressing after securing the job (2mks)
- (d) For what reason does the writer not recommend tight clothing during an interview? (2mks)
- (e) Make note on five things one could should avoid while attending an interview (5mks)

2. Read the excerpt below and answer questions that follow

DR. STOCKMANN: Comes in from his room with an open letter in his hand)

DR. STOCKMANN: (Waving the letter): well, now the town will have something new to talk about, I can tell you!

BILLING: Something new?

MRS. STOCKMANN: What is this?

DR. STOCKMANN: A great discovery, Katherine.

HOVSTARD: Really?

MRS. STOCKMANN: Which you have made?

DR. STOCKMANN: A discovery of mine. (walks up and down) just let them come saying, as usual, that it is all fancy and crazy man's imagination! But they will be careful what they say this time, I can tell you!

PETRA: But, father, tell us what this all about

DR. STOCKMANN: Yes, yes- only give me time and you shall know all about it. If only I had peter here now! It just shows how we men can go about forming our judgments, when in reality we are as blind as any bats.....

HOVSTAD: What are you driving at, Doctor?

DR. STOCKMANN: (Standing still by the table): Isn't it the general opinion that our town is a healthy spot?

HOVSTAD: Certainly

DR. STOCKMANN: Quite an usually healthy spot, in fact-a place that deserves to be recommended in the warmest possible manner either for the sick and the healthy.....

MRS. STOCKMANN: Yes, but my dear Thomas.....

DR. STOCKMANN: And we have been recommending it and praising it – I have written and written, both in messenger and in pamphlets...

HOVSTAD: Well, what then?

DR. STOCKMANN: And the baths- we have called them the “Main entry at the town's life- blood.” The nerve- centre of our town”, and the devil knows what else....”The town's throbbing heart” was the expression I once used on an important occasion.

DR. STOCKMANN: Quite so. Well, do you know what they really are, these great, splendid, much praised baths that have cost so much money- do you know what they are?

HOVSTAD: No, what are they?

MRS. STOCKMANN: Yes, what are they, Thomas?

- (a) (i) Give the setting for this excerpt. (1 mk)

Africa's plea

Roland Tombekai Dempster

I am not you

But you will not

Give me a chance

Will not let me be me.

“If I were you”

But you know

I am not you,

Yet you will not

Let me be me.

You meddle, interfere

In my affairs

As if they were yours

And you were me.

You are unfair, unwise,

Foolish to think

That I can be you,

Talk, act

And think like you.

God made me

He made you

Let me be me,

For God's sake

101/2:

(COMPREHENSION , LITERARY APPRECIATION AND GRAMMAR)

1. Read the passage below and then answer the questions that follow.

Six year old Daisy is forever asking questions about who (or what ) makes the trees outside her bedroom window grow, and who tells the night to come after the day, why her pet cat, Fluffy, went to sleep and never woke up again and so on. Unfortunately, her atheist parents have not given her satisfactory answers, especially in view of what she heard in school about a being called God. The conflicting messages have left her very confused. This is an indication of the natural existence of a sense of spirituality in children.

Almost all children, including those raised in non-religious homes, show an interest in spiritual matters. This is expressed through questions about the meaning of life and death. It has been argued that spirituality is high in early childhood but declines remarkably as adolescence sets in. children who are grounded in some form of spirituality from their formative years become resilient and are better equipped to deal with the inevitable crises of life than those who are not. During adolescence, these children are able to deal with physical whi9ms and peer pressure.

Spirituality is more of a need than a right which is why spiritually deprived children develop a vacuum that renders them vulnerable to psychological turmoil: in contemporary society, parents are very committed to meeting the material and intellectual needs of their children. Many parents ensure their children attend the best schools and have access to fantastic needs of the children. Many parents ensure their children attend the best schools and have access to fantastic health and recreational services but fail to inculcate spirituality.

In traditional societies, there were rituals and rites of passage that made life purposeful. In addition, grandmothers played the role of instilling spirituality, ethics and morality in children through story telling. These practices gave children hope and prepared them to deal with life's challenges. Following the extinction of most these practices today's children face many challenges.

Any spirituality that children are naturally endowed with cannot flourish unattended. In most cases it is deflated as they encounter material and unjust cultures that are also devoid of proper role models. Spirituality must therefore be inculcated by parents from the early years. If not the vacuum is usually by whatever the world has to offer, good or bad. In an attempt to impact spirituality some parents introduce complicated theological facts leading to rather, than reducing, the child's anxiety about life. Ideally, introduction of spiritual matters should be age appropriate.

- (a) In what ways does Daisy's parent contribute to her dilemma? (3mks)
- (b) How does the author justify that all children demonstrate some degree of spirituality? (2mks)

- (c) Rewrite the following sentence using the correct form of the word “indicate” in place of indication of the natural existence of a sense of spirituality in children. (1mk)
- (d) In about 60 words summarize the author’s argument about spirituality in children. (6mks)
- (e) How did the traditional society cater for spiritual needs? (1mk)
- (f) Many parents ensure their children attend the best schools and have access to fantastic health (Rewrite to begin with, Not only.....) (1mk)
- (g) Give tow ways that hinder children’s proper acquisition of spirituality (2mks)
- (h) Explain the meaning of the following words as used in the passage. (3mks)
- Resilient
  - Turmoil
  - Deflated

2. Read the story below and answer the questions that follows

One long ago a spider invited a rabbit to take him to heaven to negotiate his marriage. On the way, at the rabbits suggestion, it was agreed that of the hospitality offered the two friends in heaven, all that professed by the best towers to be for guests would go to the rabbit while that for suitors would go to the spider. When they arrived in the evening, tired after the long journey, chairs, placing his legs and arms on the extra ones. It was only after waiting that a chairs were brought for the visitors. The rabbit sat on the chairs, placing his legs and arms on the extra ones. It was only after waiting that a chair was brought for the sutor. When water was brought for washing their feet, the rabbit behaved in a similar manner and he did the same with the food brought. He ate all the best food and soiled the rest. At night while the rabbit was asleep the spider slaughtered a ram, ate the delicious parts and then returned to earth using a rope which he cut after he had finished using it. The rabbit woke the following morning to find himself stranded in heaven. He resolved on jumping directly into space. He fell unconscious onto the earth, but soon recovered consciousness and found himself on a path.

While he was still lying there resting, a traveling woman passed that way carrying a large basket on her head in which there was her child, his shoes and some food. The rabbit pretended he was dead and the woman picked him up, depositing him in the basket with other things which were already there. Once inside the basket the rabbit started eating the child's food. When the child protested to his mother, he was rebuked and told that food itself had been known to eat. The rabbit proceeded to try on the child's shoes. Again the child protested, but was once again silenced. And then the rabbit jumped out from the basket with the shoes on and escaped from the perplexed woman.

The following day the rabbit met an elephant who admired the shoes and on inquiry as the maker, the rabbit professed it was his hard work and told the elephant that he could make him a similar pair if he could be brave and forbearing enough which the elephant said he was. So on an agreed day the two went to a secret place. The rabbit made a big fire and heated an iron rod on it. So on an agreed day the two went to a secret place. The rabbit made a big fire and heated an iron rod on it. With the red hot rod he continually sliced at the elephant's feet. Each time the elephant showed signs of pain the rabbit mocked his vanity in view of his large size, to which the elephant responded by trying to bear the anguish inflicted without complainant. But it was unendurable and the elephant died in the process. The rabbit entered the elephant's stomach through the anus and started feeding on the delicious parts.

Question 1

Read the passage below and then answer the questions that follow

Kenya is on the throes of yet another revolution in the area of ICT ( information and Communication Technology). Since the CCK (communication Commission of Kenya) announced the liberalization voice over internet Protocol (VoIP) services. Kenya's cyber space has been abuzz with excitement.

The legalization of this technology is not only changing the mode of communication but, precisely, how much Kenyans will be paying to communicate.

The introduction of mobile telephones in Kenya was hailed as a revolution but it pales in comparison with VoIP. Before the introduction of VoIP services, the charge for calling any where in the world, with the exception of Tanzania and Uganda, was about 68 shillings per minute. These charges were some of the highest in the world.

Today, however, you can call anywhere in the world for between 15 and 20 shillings per minute in selected telecenters in the country.

But what exactly is VoIP? It is a telephone service that uses data packet technology to transmit voice using the internet.

The traditional telephone call relies on a permanent connection (known as switched circuit) being established between two telephone correspondents before they can communicate.

This is a very inefficient use of resources and that is why traditional telephony is expensive, particularly for international calls.

VoIP digitizes a telephone conversation on a permanent connection (known as switched circuit) being established between two telephone correspondents before they can communicate. This is a very inefficient use of resources and that is why traditional telephony is expensive, particularly for international calls.

VoIP digitizes a telephone conversation on a permanent connection (known as switch circuit) being established between two telephone correspondents before they can communicate. This is a very inefficient use of resources and that is why traditional telephony is expensive, particularly for international calls.

VoIP digitizes a telephone conversation and then arranges the data in “packets” which are transmitted over the internet using the most efficient routes. Such routes do not have to be dictated. Each packet contains a destination address and so the voice messages always reach the intended recipient.

Recent developments in technology have meant that the quality of service for VoIP is now as good as that of traditional circuit switching. The interesting thing about VoIP is that, unlike competing technologies, there are several ways of placing a call, thus providing variety to consumers with specialized needs. There are three different types of VoIP service in common use today.

The simplest and the most common way is through the use of a device called ATA (Analog telephone adaptor). An ordinary ATA is about the size of a normal mobile phone. It allows you to connect a standard phone to your computer or your internet connection for use with VoIP.

The second way to make a VoIP call is through internet Protocol (IP) phones. The CCK, however reckons that these market in an avalanche. An IP phone., looks just like a normal phone with a handset, cradle and buttons. However, it has a different kind of connector called the RJ – 45 Ethernet connector.

The computer – to computer is certainly the easiest way to use VoIP. Without any hidden cost, you can make a long distance calls for free. All you need is the right software, a microphone, speakers, a sound card and an internet connection preferably a fast one. Except for your normal monthly ISP ( Internet Service Provider) fee, there is usually no charge for computer to computer calls, regardless of distance.

All in all, it was inevitable that VoIP would be adopted in Kenya because technology across the globe is headed that way. Kenya is not an island, particularly in the emerging global village. Furthermore, for Kenyans to compete effectively on a world stage, their competitiveness in terms of communications must be in tune with what is happening elsewhere. As such, VoIP is a timely idea.

3. Read the following poem and answer the questions that follow.

Conquerors

By sundown we came to a hidden village

Where all the air was still

And no sound met our ears, save

For the sorry drip of rain from blackened trees

And the melancholy song of swinging gates

Then through a broken pane some of us saw

A dead bird in a rusting cage, still

Pressing his thin tattered breasts against the bars

His beak wide open. And

As we hurried through the weed- grown street

A gaunt dog started up from some dark place

And shambled off on legs as thin as sticks

Into the wood, to die at least in peace.

No one had told us victory was like this:

Not one amongst us would have eaten bread

Before he filled the mouth of grey child

That sprawled, stiff as a stone, before the shattered door.

There was no one of us who did not think of home

  - (iii) Hire
  - (iv) Blue
  - (v) Ate

- (b) Read the poem below and then answer the questions that follow

“The Debt” by Paul Laurence Dunbar

This is the debt I pay

Just for one riotous day

Years of regret and grief

Sorrow without relief

Put it I will to the end

Until the grave, my friend

Gives me a true release

Gives me the clasp of peace

Slight was the thing I bought,

Small was the debt I thought,

Poor was the loan at best

God! But the interest!

(From American Negro, Edited by Arna Bontemps)

- (i) List all the pairs of rhyming words
- (ii) Describe the tone of voice that would be appropriate in the reading of this poem
- (iii) How does the punctuation in the second stanza influence your reading of the poem?
- (iv) How would you say the last line of the poem?

(c) Consider the situation below and then answer the questions that follow

You are part of an audience that is listening to a speech. You look around and notice that some people are looking at their watches; a few are yawning, and one or two are shifting in their seats.

- (i) What would be the likely cause of such behaviour?
- (ii) What would you do to ensure you continue listening effectively?

(d) Consider the following conversation between a seller and a buyer of chickens and then answer the questions that follow

BUYER : How are you this morning?

SELLER : I'm Okay

BUYER : I'm looking for good chickens, but yours don't look too good. I'm going to have visitors, and this being the Christmas season, I really must give them a feast.

SELLER : These are the right kind of chickens for your visitors. They're healthy and well fed.

BUYER : On the contrary, they look underfed. Anyway, what is your price?

SELLER : It depends. I charge more for cocks; they have more meat, you know. ( pointing at a red cock). This one, for instance, goes for Kshs 400,00. As for the hens, I charge Kshs 250.00

BUYER : You're not serious! Much of the weight is a bundle of bones. I'm giving you Kshs 150.00 for each hen and Ksh. 300.00 for the cock. I'm buying three of each- three hens for Kshs. 450.00 and three cocks for Kshs. 900.00. This will give us a total of Kshs 1, 350.00.

SELLER : You know, I buy and sell. I don't get them from my shamba. Your figure doesn't give me any profit at all.

BUYER : But you also know that money is hard to come by, and especially during this Christmas season. Give me a reasonable price unless you prefer I go to another seller.

SELLER : Let me make it Kshs 225.00 for a hen and Kshs 375.00 for a cock.

BUYER : It looks like you are not interested in selling your chickens

SELLER : No, I'm. Why would I be here? My children's fees come from this business.

BUYER : Okay, take Kshs 175.00 for each hen and Kshs 325.00 for each cock.

SELLER : No, there would be no profit for me. You can do better than that. You can surely promote my small business. Just give me Kshs 350.00 per cock and Kshs 225.00 per hen.

This would be Kshs. 675.00 for the three hens and Kshs. 1,050.00 for the cocks.

BUYER : (Doing his mental arithmetic's) That's a total of Kshs 1,725.00. Okay at least I'll be able to feed my visitors. (Handing over the money) Here you are.

SELLER : Thank you. (As the seller ties them together) you're a good customer.

Please come again. My name is Musumbi

BUYER : And I'm Karani. See you then

SELLER : See you

- (i) What is the purpose of the greetings in this situation?
- (ii) Identify and explain the negotiation skills of the buyer
- (iii) What does this business transactions reveal about the nature of negotiations

2. OPTIONAL TEXT

THE SHORT STORY

- The church is supposed to provide a safe haven for women who wish to escape from their abusive spouses, yet the reverse occurs. For example, the vicar's sermon extols the role of husbands and the need for women to be subservient to their husbands.
- He impresses the different responsibilities of the husband and wife in the home.
- He thinks that the men who attend the church service are good examples of men who sustain their families.....”wonderful men who care about their families. “p. 100

- The society does not allow for divorce of separation especially for women suffering from domestic violence. For example the vicar felt he could not condone Mme lady leaving her husband no matter the circumstances
- Dowry paid is high and ties the woman to abusive marriages. For example Mme lady cannot repay.” Pg 99
- Women in this society are not accorded equal education opportunities as their male counterparts. This has greatly contributed to their dependence on their husband. Mme is jobless thus lacks empowerment. As such she cannot leave him
- In this society, women are expected to uphold family honour, and marriage strife’s are blamed entirely on women, E.g. Mme lady says that no one would believe her story least of all her parents and she would be blamed. (any well illustrated points)

b) Drama; shred of tenderness

Plight of refugees

Introduction

The refugee problem in Africa constitutes a humanitarian crisis. Indeed with through of people fleeing countries such as the Democratic Republic of Congo, Rwanda, Burundi , the Sudan and Somali, not to mention those from West Africa, Africa now has mention those from West Africa, Africa now has the lion’s share of refugees in the world. The refugees run away from murderous and dictatorial regimes which commit crimes such as genocide and settle in countries such as Kenya, as it is alluded to in Ruganda’s shred of tenderness.

The refugees encounter problem with the immigration officials. In addition to suspecting the refugees to be drug traffickers and harassing them, the officers rape their women and at times infect them with HIV/AIDS pg 88&4. at the immigration the constable was sniffing on Stella's legs "like a dog on heat". Pg 93 the police officers hand on the refugee's waistline though he was humorous to her. The constable kicked the refugee and she howled in pain pg 92 03

In the host countries they are despised and treated with contempt and suspicion . The natives of these countries resent them for taking their jobs. The men resent them for taking their women. Scarcity of basic commodities such as toilet paper is also blamed on them. Odie is uncomfortable with the addition of Wak to the family. Fears that it will strain the finances.

Aid agencies frustrate refugees in the host countries. For example the UNHCR and other international agencies prefer sending aid to European refugees in places such as Kosove.

When the refugees finally return home, they are made to feel they don't belong. Their inheritance has been grabbed by the relatives who remained behind. Odie resents wak, his step brother who has returned from exile. Odie has already grabbed the entire family inheritance, and now fears that Wak stake his claim.

THE NOVEL: HOMESTRETCH

- Brenda is Jamaican girl, now living in the Diaspora, having left Jamaica at fourteen. The outside world, especially America and England lures Jamaicans from their homeland. It promises better education and economic opportunities. But to Brenda it brings about bitterness and psychological torture for as the saying goes “east or west, home is best”.
- Through Laura’s strong and confident personality, she carefully counsels Brenda who learns to reconcile herself to her experiences and accepts her homeland.
- Laura invites Brenda for lunch in one of the hotels at Kingston. Brenda pours her experiences of rejection by her own country because of the betrayal of her dreams in America and England. It was difficult for her to get a job in England due to entrenched racial prejudice. Laura gives her ears to her and time and it’s after this that Brenda feels psychologically healed. Through Lura she learns not to be dependent and escapist by willing not to move again. This an indication of the Laura is going to play in Brenda’s reclaiming of self-worth, identity, independence and pride
- Laura invites Brenda to her uncle and aunt’s anniversary party in woods
- During wood tour, Laura informs Brenda about the history of the parish and socio- cultural meaning of some of the features of significance and even legends.
- Also during woods tour she learns that there are future plans (Edith’s plant to revive the basic school) and church. This motivates her too to come up with a plan to help re-orient youths in England with Caribbean parentage with their country.

- Laura takes Brenda to celebrate the heritage week.
- During invitation to David and Edith celebrations, Brenda meets Anthony.
Brenda has a lot of fun hence ensuring that she realizes the plentifulness of home and beautiful view of Jamaica.
- Brenda and Anthony set on a grand tour for her it is a re-discovery of Jamaica.
- After the tour of the South coast they move to the North Coast
At the end of the tour, the two have future plans of discovering the black Diaspora community now that they have done the Homestretch and re-discovered their home and its beauty.

Conclusion

In conclusion, Homestretch portrays issues of patriotism. The Jamaicans love of one's country is central to leading a positive and fulfilling life. The influence of Laura and her discovery of the true beauty and homeliness of Jamaica under the company of Anthony heals Brenda and she becomes proud of her homeland. She is able to overcome the unfriendly outer world and appreciate her homeland with a sense of patriotism. She symbolizes rebirth and reveals the possibilities of healing of an alienated and psychologically bruised individual after the agonizing experiences of alienation. Brenda writes a letter to Laura thanking her for helping her discover Jamaica.

Her rediscovery forms the statement of the novel.

MODEL PAPER 4

1. a)

- It must be a story ending with the given statement
- It must have good and credible characters
- Candidates must use language creatively
- Reward use of rich vocabulary and items of merit

b)

- The story must illustrate the proverb
- It must be written in the past tense
- Consider the above points for question (a)

2. i) Award 2 marks for introduction which

- a) Must define who a mediator is
- b) Cite examples from the contemporary world ii) Identify qualities giving examples from the novel; e.g.... A mediator should

a) Be neutral and show impartiality e.g..

- Waiyaki is perceived as not neutral-as secretary to the 'Kiama' something that does not go well with Joshua's group.
- He went to Joshua's church and severally visited Siriana Mission and was wrongly labelled as a traitor.

b) Have a clean record

The kiama is not comfortable with Waiyaki because he once touched Muthoni's dying body and they see him as having "thahu"

c) Authoritative/powerful/assertive

- Waiyaki has command in his voice-this makes him respected and feared even when he's very small and young E.g. the time he commands Kamau and Kinuthia to stop fighting and they obeyed him.
- When summoned by the kiama, he also asserts himself to the elders and makes them listen to him
- During the meeting at Marioshoni school he's able to command the attention and respect of the elders in attendance.

d) Respectable.

- Waiyaki is respected by many in the community e.g. they call him "Teacher" – both young and the old. E.g. Nyambura calls him by the title in her father's presence.
- A few people do not respect him though e.g.. the likes of Joshua and Kabonyi-this was due to malice on Kabonyi's part because he feels that leadership should go with age.

e) Charismatic/knowledgeable

- The leader must be his wisdom to know and try to get solutions to the problems facing his people; E.g.. Waiyaki knows the only weapon that can be effectively used against the Whiteman and his oppression is the Whiteman's education. As a result he champions the building of the Gikuyu independent schools.

- He also builds these schools to accommodate learners from both ridges- Makuyu and Kameno.

f) Diplomatic

- Must be able to weigh the situation and change with the times.
- Waiyaki is not diplomatic and does not sense the immediate need of this people to fight and drive out Whiteman. This is what led to his eventual downfall.
- While insisting that the education is the only way out of colonialism, Kabonyi and the Kiama feel that physical violence is the immediate solution

g) Confident

- Must be ready to face any disagreeing groups- Waiyaki was able to face both Joshua's and Kabonyi's groups.
- When summoned by the kiama, he confidently faced them and responded to their questions without fear.
- He also fearlessly goes to Joshua's house to warn the family of the evil plans of kiama.

3. a) Narrator is a child at the opening of the story.

- i) He is delighted in his new clothes (uniform)
- ii) It's the first day of school
- iii) He is scared of going to school and keeps on turning towards his mother from time to time as though appealing for help.

iv) Seems to believe that being taken to school is a punishment meant for wrong doers.

v) He was to be led by the hand when being taken to school in the morning.

vi) At the gate his father told him that day was the true beginning of life.

b) The narrator's socialization changes on being in school.

i) On day one, he saw many boys and girls and knew none of them and none of them knew.

ii) With time he had playmates and befriended many boys and fell in love with girls

iii) He realized that his misgiving about school had no basis.

iv) He realized there was a rich variety in school because

a) They played different games; e.g. the swings, vaulting horse and ball games

b) They sang in the music room

c) They are introduced to language learning

d) They are introduced to geography (the globe) and various Continents and countries.

e) They also get introduced to arithmetic (numbers)

f) They are also introduced to religion-the story of the creator of the universe and life after death.

- c) Some of the narrator's experiences in school are symbolic of growing up; e.g.,
- i) He says living things were drawn to other living things and he fell in love with such girls as he was to be in love with –boys starting school don't know what falling in love is.
  - ii) There was eating of delicious food in school, slept and woke up to go on with friendship and love, play and learning-the narrator distinguishes friendship and love unlikely for a starter of schooling.
  - iii) The narrator talks of things that would happen in school Occasionally like unexpected accidents and rivalries that would bring about pain and hatred or result in fights and the lady would sometimes smile, she would often scold and scowl and frequently result to physical punishment.

These are all a pointer to things taking place over a period of time and not in a half a day.
  - iv) the narrator says that in school, they learnt the time for changing one's mind was over and gone and there was no question of ever returning to the paradise of home. They also learnt that for success to be realized in life, there was need for exertion, struggle and perseverance and those who were able, took advantage of the opportunities for success and happiness that presented themselves amid the worries. These things took time and not half a day.

- d) The changing of physical environment on the way to and from school also attests to the passage of time.
  - i) On the way to school in the morning the street on which the narrator and his father walked along was lined with gardens; On both sides were extensive fields planted with crops, pears, henna trees and a few date palms.
  - ii) On the way back home, this same street was very different in that
    - a) There was traffic jam. “When did all these cars invade the streets; the fire engine blowing the siren could not move as first as it should to reach the blazing fire”.
    - b) There were very many people who hadn’t been there before
    - c) There was refuse dumps-evidence of residence by a large number of people. “the streets surged with children and disturbing voices shook the air.” (p 11)
    - d) There were storeyed/high buildings which were not there in the morning. –they put time to put up and this could not have been done in half a day. “How could all this have happened in half a day, between early morning and sunset?”

- e) The narrator has learnt to be independent and he decides to go home on his own.
- i) On the way home, he meets a middle-aged man, an acquaintance who says; “It’s a long time since we last met-how are you?-this means the narrator also is in his middle-age or older and he hasn’t grown old in half a day.
- ii) when he comes to the cross roads between the gardens and Abu Khoda road, the narrator says he wanted’.. to reach my house...” This means he is a grown up with his own house, not his parents and therefore he is no longer in school. After standing at the cross roads for a long time and unable to cross, a young lad employed at the ironing shop on the corner came to help him. The young lad must be old enough to be employed and the narrator is older than him, thus referring to him as young; the lad also uses the word ‘grandpa’ in reference to the narrator-to mean the narrator is an old man.

- i) They suffer bitter memories as they nostalgically remember their mother country. E.g.. pg 83... Wak remember the rhythm of life, the decency and courtesy he used to get back home. The memories give the refugees physiological problems and suffering.
- ii) The refugees face total degradation humiliation and frustration from the countries they seek refuge. Wak says, 'there is nothing abominable as being a refugee' (pg 80). They are always shouted at and constantly reminded that they are aliens even by people of low cadre (Sweepers and cleaner)

- iii) They also face hostility from citizens who constantly blame them for joblessness
- iv) The few who gets jobs are misused as cheap labour, they also live in constant fear of being sacked or repatriated to their mother country.
- v) They suffer hunger and deprivation because of poor remuneration.
- vi) Never appreciated because of their identity "You can never do anything right once you are a refugee". "You are always a marked man or woman" (pg 81)

- (vii) Female refugees suffer from sexual abuse. This is well illustrated in the play within a play where Stella, a female refugee is ordered to undergo a body search.

1. Introduction

- Highlight general emerging issues affecting the continent e.g..
- Family degradation
- Social and economic decline
- Poor salaries
- Immorality

- Racism/racial problems
2. Content
- i) Migration
    - Due to industrial expansion in the large empires such as U.S.A and Britain. David and Edith leave Jamaica to go and look for jobs there (U.S.A and Britain) this causes brain drain.
    - Massive flow from rural to urban areas-this causes marriage strain and separation
  - ii) Employment and retirement
    - Many work far away and retire to their traditional homes like Edith and David.
    - If money not well-invested they have to use their pension to settle.
    - Africans urged/encouraged to save through banks and NSSF.
  - iii) They suffer racial discrimination; e.g Brenda is discriminated against in Britain and later at the college of further education (CFE)
    - Brenda to take various tests in the office of the counselor
    - She's placed in a grade 9 classroom and has to go downstairs at a home room.
  - iv) Teenage pregnancy e.g..
    - Laura's mother gets pregnant and nobody ever mentions her father
    - Brenda was born out of wedlock
    - It's important to teach the teenagers responsible sexual behaviour.

MODEL PAPER 5

1. Dr. Stockman is principle. – Refuses to be intimidated by Peter e.g... refuse to succumb to threats of dismissal and blackmail. Peter Stockmann is corrupt- He is driven to selfishness and doesn't want to disclose the contents of the report.
2. Dr. stockman is liberal/dynamic while peter is conservative
3. Peter is irresponsible/ negligent – due to selfishness he disregards the health of the town dwellers. Dr. Stockmann is responsible and concerned.

Comparison and contrast of Peter and Thomas Stockmann

Comparison

1. Both are determined/relentless
  - Dr. Stockmann is determined to ensure that the truth about the Baths is known.
  - Peter Stockmann is determined to ensure that Peter Stockmann is determined to ensure that Peter Stockmann does not reveal the truth about the Baths.
2. Both are sarcastic
  - Peter Stockmann criticizes everything that his brother says or does e.g.. his eating habits (Eating beef and taking toddy after.
  - Dr. Stockmann pg 78 "...that is the masses, compact majority-this internal
  - Compact majority-that poisons the sources of our moral life and infects the soil we tread on.
3. Both are presumptuous
  - Peter believes that the ruling elite have the monopoly of thought/ideas i.e

that the compact majority have no capacity to think.

- Dr. Stockmann believes that the solid majority are behind him even before his article is published.

THE RIVER BETWEEN

SATIRE:

Def: Satire is the portrayal of characters in a humorous, funny or odd manner so as to ridicule vices of humans. The writer satirizes:

1. Religious fanaticism- Joshua thinks everything African is evil. His fanaticism alienates him from his family. E.g... he becomes insensate to his children's immediate psychological needs.
2. Female circumcision/dogmaticism-Joshua full dedication to Christianity.
3. Jealousy/hatred and envy-Kamau and Kabonyi hateful attitude towards Waiyaki.
4. Betrayal/deceitful behaviour.
5. Colonialism and exploitation
5. Colonialism and exploitation
  - Taxes imposed
  - Annexation of peoples land by the white man.
  - Africans are being forced to work for to work for the white man to pay taxes.
6. Double standards.

MODEL PAPER 7

  - i) The town has hawkers struggling to sell their wares to people. Earn their living though shouting and calling out for customers.
  - ii) The medicine seller is driven by the need to survive. This is because the medicine does not solve the problems he claims. For example, it does not protect him against policemen who raid the tax evaders.
  - iii) The taxi driver drives, recklessly to scramble for passengers and make as many trips and make more for himself.
  - iv) There is stiff competition among the traders. For example, there is a man whose business is to call people to board taxis and is paid 50 cents.
  - v) A man shouting is described as barking like a crazy dog. The callers are doing this to out do each other to entice passengers to board certain vehicles.
  - vi) The man digs from morning to midday he sells whatever he gets from the farm to the town dwellers. Before the crowd is scattered by police the man had approached the medicine seller with the aim of obtaining charms to protect him against burglars from home. The burglars steal to make ends meet.
  - i) “The Sunday Times” reports that the reign of terror has ended and exiles are urged to return home. This report is used to influence the exiles view of their security in their home country and the feeling of calmness.
  - ii) Odie claims that Wak is dead and places his picture in the “Argus”. He also announces the said over the radio. Although Stella describes this as a hoax, Odie uses this chance through the media to settle old scores with Wak. He uses this to change the title deed and get Wak's inheritance.

- iii) radio announces the killing of Wak and others. This announcement is pure propaganda meant to portray the government as being in full control
- iv) "The Sunday Times" Advert promising 40,000 dollars to help rehabilitate each returnee.
- v) Wak is said to have returned home due to these financial inducements and not patriotism. To Odie therefore this advert helped shape the opinion of Wak on the issue of returning home.
- vi) The media gives out the international opinion and does not care if its at variance with local facts and opinions. Such media puts a lid on the truth and propels the regimes, supporters and patriots into righteousness.

3. Introduction

For many people, retirement seems to be the end of their productive years. Many view this as the time to sit back and rest without responsibilities or objections imposed on them by the society .

Or

David proves that even after 30 years of working and retiring, one can still live an active and productive life. His determination, creativity and generosity are adored. His hard work, patriotism and fun loving nature are a challenge to many retirees in Kenya.

Determined

When we first meet him, David is an invalid/sick man who has just returned and is coming home to start a new life. This however, does not make him lose hope of regaining his health and becoming useful again weigh encouragement from friends Charles and Maytle and wife Edith, his determination pays off and he is back on his feet despite his age. Pg 31

Through sheer determination he is able to make a new and happy life back in Jamaica in his twilight years . pg 41-47

Creative and innovative

David has been good with his hand throughout his working life in England. Even though he is retired he decides to use his creative skills to renovate his house (pg 44-45) Laura is impressed by it.

He also embarks on training the young boys from the newly revived school in the wood work and in so doing, they rehabilitate the furniture needed in future.

Generous and welcoming

Many at retirement constantly worry about their finances and they would not wish to share what they have with others. He generously invites the residents of woods village, relatives far and near, and friends to celebrate his family's return of course a lot of resources are used for this. Everyone leaves with a food parcel at the end of the party. (pg 107)

After their return to Jamaica, people constantly drop in to great them, have a drink and chat. (pg 34)

His family is ready to shoulder the burden of a teacher's salary for the new school. (pg 38). His generous nature is admirable.

Patriotic

He longs to go home after retirement and actually saves for his dream which comes true. (pg 7) This saves for his dream which comes true. (pg 7) This is despite the fact that he has been away from Jamaica for 30 years. He still regards it as home and has a strong identity with and pride for Jamaica, his home.

He offers to entertain a group of teenagers whom Brenda intends to bring from England to come and learn about their Jamaican roots. (pg 114)

He decides to adopt a class and furnish it just like some corporations were doing (pg 114)

KCSE ENGLISH PAPER 2 (FUNCTIONAL SKILLS)

- a) There is very little likelihood of finding a positive story on Africa, you” you set out to find a positive story on Africa, You may have to wait until your grandchildren have grown old”
- b) The writer mentions Bosnia and Serbia in order to show how Africa is treated unfairly. Africa is lumped into one big sorry mass. For instance of civil wars break out in Europe they are not European civil wars but civil wars in Bosnia and Serbia. On the other hand a civil war in a tiny country in Africa is regarded as an African affair.
- c) The word “experts” is put within quotation marks to show that he writer is questioning the credibility of the so-called experts from the west.
- d) The I had all the predictions made about the impact of AIDS been correct, most Africans countries would haven entirely depopulated by now.
- e) According to the passage, corruption is evident in both Africa and America, but the corruption in Africa is blown out of all proportion. The write says that in America only the executives of a given company are said to be corrupt while all African leaders are seen as being irredeemably corrupt.
- f) African stories are mainly assigned to the most junior and inexperienced journalists since there is a preconceived perception that Africa is guilty unless proven innocent. They are indoctrinated/given this version of a “Hopeless continent” for so long that when they land in any African country they immediately set out to confirm their prejudices.

- g) The writer is an African. This is evident in the condemnatory/disapproving tone he uses to condemn the prejudices held against Africa. He uses the personal pronoun “we”, “so, while we feel irritated and even angered by the western media’s portrayal of Africa...”
- h) Silver lining – something good in a seemingly bad situation sorry- pitiable/pitiful
- i) Irredeemable-too bad to be corrupted/beyond repair correction.
